Rhodesia Thorny Problem

LONDON (CP) — Southern Rhodesia was the problem uppermost in many minds here when Sir Alec Douglas-Home confirmed Thursday that a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference will be held in July.

Prime Minister Douglas-Home told the Commons the meeting will come in the first half of July and Commonwealth chiefs will soon discuss an agenda.

July 7 has been mentioned as a possible opening date for the talks which will likely go on eight or 10 days—only a few months before Britain's general election, scheduled for autumn. At least 11 countries will attend, 11 of them independent less than eight years.

The unusually long period since the last conference was held in September, 1962, reflects uncertainty about the future of the

'Living Organization'

MONTREAL (UPI) — Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys Thursday defended the Commonwealth as "a living organization that is changing all the time" when he spoke at the opening of the British Motor Show.

Beer Can Treasure

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Pop" artist Andrew Warhol was commissioned to paint a sociological comment on a factor of American life for decoration at the world fair's New York state pavilion.

His contribution was unveiled Thursday — the faces of the city's 12 most wanted criminals blown up in a 30-by-30-foot mural.

"Far from declining, the Commonwealth is expanding and co-operating in its common cause," said Sandys. "The constant series of meetings reflects its essential character."

On the subject of Anglo-Canadian trade, Sandys said his government was pressing for a "more level balance," and expressed the hope both countries would try to redress the imbalance, now weighted heavily in favor of Canada.

"In order to maintain our overseas markets and sales, we have to offer something special . . . in higher quality or lower prices," he said.

Will Americans Retaliate?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senator Henry Jackson of Washington Thursday asked the administration whether it has assured Canada the United States will not retaliate against an extension of Canadian fishing waters.

Canada plans to extend its fishing limits to 12 miles on May 15.

In a Senate speech, Jackson said that H. J. Robichaud, Canadian minister of fisheries, told a member of the Canadian House last month there was no indication of United States retaliation.

Jackson said it would be interesting to find out if the administration has given such assurances should Canada's unilateral decision hurt American fishing.

Jackson said President Kennedy informed Canadian leaders last May that the United States would reserve its rights in these waters.

Jackson said there have also been indications that Canada plans to claim as territorial waters Hecate Strait where many Pacific Northwest fishermen operate, as well as the Gulf of St. Lawrence and large bodies of water in the Atlantic and Pacific.

He said this would create precedents gravely affecting the freedom of the navy and air force to operate over the high seas.

Abel's Wings Tax Toronto, 4-3

DETROIT — Sid Abel, the Red Wing coach, tried to explain why his club looked tired last night. Toronto Maple Leafs weren't among his believers, however, they had just lost, 4-3, to fall behind 2-1 in their Stanley Cup hockey series.

"Most of our boys were busy with their lawyers figuring their income tax Wednesday," said Abel.

Canada Boom Surges Higher

OTTAWA (CP) — The national economy, ending 1963 on an up-beat note, registered a 6.6-per-cent gain in output during the year as the current long-lived business expansion began to rival the two postwar booms.

Gross national product—total value of goods and services produced—reached $41,007,000,000 the bureau of statistics reported Thursday. The increase was $2,688,000,000 over the revised 1962 total of $38,319,000,000.

PRICES RISING

With prices rising 1.8 per cent—about the same as in 1962—the volume of national production expanded 4.6 per cent compared with 61 per cent in 1962.

The 6.6-per-cent GNP rise shown in the bureau's report—first full accounting for the year—surpassed the estimate of six per cent made only a month ago by Finance Minister Gordon in his budget speech.

As anticipated, the economy's performance in the fourth quarter was the strongest of the year, with gross national product rising 2.9 per cent from the third quarter to an annual rate of $44,332,000,000. Output in real volume terms rose 2.3 per cent.

SHARP GAIN

The gain in the October-December quarter was one of the sharpest since the current economic expansion began early in 1961.

The bureau report does not call this expansion a boom. But it said that in its first 2 1/2 years, output in real volume terms rose 17.5 per cent compared with 21 per cent in the comparable period of the 1954-57 capital spending boom and 19 per cent in the 1949-52 Korean War expansion.

Shrine Nudged By Wall

WITHIN 10 YARDS

The work, which began Monday night and continued Wednesday night, moved the new section of wall to within 10 yards of a rough wooden cross honoring the memory of Peter Fechter, a young East German shot down in 1962 while trying to scale the barrier and flee to the west.

CAMPUS TOWN PLAN BARED

By TED GASKELL

Plan for a University of Victoria — controlled development of an apartment village on the Lansdowne campus acreage at a cost of between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000, was presented to the public at a meeting last night.

More than 200 residents of Oak Bay — and a few from Saanich — were present to hear details of the proposal which could provide the university with an endowment revenue of more than $750,000 a year in 15 or 20 years when the development is paid for.

The development board has assurance that loans for the construction of the 630-suite apartment village would be insured by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The plan is the second the university development board has proposed for the 35 acres on Foul Bay Road. (See Picture Page 13.)

Operation Death

No Negligence Says Jury

Graham

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury hearing an inquest into the post-operative death of 54-year-old Palmerston widow Ina Noer ruled Thursday that there was no significant evidence of negligence.

They reached the decision while admitting there were serious and unfortunate errors made during the operation.

Mrs. Noer died in Palmerston General Hospital eight days after Dr. Kenneth Graham, M.D., of Palmerston had performed a gall bladder operation on her.

A clamp was found inside Mrs. Noer, but the jury said this did not contribute to the death. However, it said it did show signs of lack of care on the part of Dr. Graham, in this phase of the operation.

The jury statement said death was caused by bile peritonitis which resulted from two significant surgical errors.

DISSECTION INADEQUATE

First, insufficient and inadequate dissection of the operative area, including failure to identify distinctly the cystic and hepatic ducts and the common bile duct, and particularly the junction of the cystic and common bile duct.

Second, inadequate closing of the cystic duct.

Shoplifting Research By 'Bomb' Planter Fascinates Magistrate

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man who once planted a fake atomic bomb in the back yard of the White House dropped another "bomb" in police court Thursday.

Nicholas Schatroph told magistrate Bernard Isman that he deliberately shoplifted a $4 carving fork from a department store so that he could write the final chapter to a study he is making on shoplifting.

He said he wanted "first-hand experience" on the problem of shoplifting.

Schatroph, charged after store security officers arrested him on the street outside the store, said he took the fork intentionally so he could study co-operation "between shoplifters and the store, co-operation between the store and police and shoplifters and police."

All the relationships were good, he said, except the one between shoplifters and the store.

Pearson Greetings

Hope for World Khrushchev Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told Soviet Premier Khrushchev Thursday there is now more hope for solving the world's international problems.

His comment was contained in a message of greetings to the Soviet premier who celebrates his 70th birthday today.

"You are celebrating it, your birthday, at a time when there is a greater hope than formerly for finding solutions to the serious international problems that confront us," Mr. Pearson said.

"Such solutions will take time but they are essential to the peace for which there now is no tolerable alternative."

"We all recognize that the co-operation of the Soviet Union as one of the world's most powerful states and under your leadership is an indispensable element in the patient and persistent exploration of all measures which may contribute to a better understanding between nations."

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev received congratulations on his 70th birthday today from Chinese Communist chief Mao Tse-tung, with whom he is carrying on a bitter struggle for control of world communism.

Khrushchev was also named Hero of the Soviet Union, the country's highest honor, and praised by all the top men in the Kremlin.

We Love It, Says Mayor

Timmins Sits on Jewelry Store

TIMMINS, Ont. (UPI) — "We're sitting on top of a jewelry store here . . . and we love it."

That was mayor Leo del Villano's jubilant reaction Thursday to word that an American mining company has made a "major" copper-zinc-silver discovery near this northern Ontario mining centre.

(See also stories, Page 10).

The discovery, announced in New York by Texas Gulf Sulphur Company president

Claude O. Stephens, set off a flurry of trading in mining stocks on both the New York and Toronto exchanges.

Reports from New York suggested fortunes had been made by land speculators. The Toronto market, with trading totalling more than 4,000,000 shares in the first hour, appeared headed for a volume record.

But nothing was more demonstrative than the almost "gold rush" reaction with which this community of 29,000 greeted the news.

Scores of mining prospectors thronged the downtown business section. Even housewife chatter across the back fence reflected the town feeling that big days lay ahead.

"This is one of the biggest days in Northern Ontario's history," said del Villano, a part-time liquor salesman who has been mayor for eight years. "There's only one word to sum up how we feel—wonderful."

Del Villano said he and many others in the community believed there was a great deal more mineral wealth in the area "just waiting to be found."

"We feel we're sitting on top of a jewelry store, and we haven't even begun to get at the wealth," he said.

The mayor felt the Texas Gulf discovery came at a "most opportune" time, because some 1,500 jobs were scheduled to be lost this year with the closure of a veteran Hollinger mine owned by Consolidated Gold Mines Limited.

"The town might have been in some trouble when the mine shut down, but now things look all right," he said.

He said the Timmins council would do everything in its power to assist prospective mine operators get information about the area and its potential.

"We intend to treat these people right," he promised.

Lansdowne Village

with strong opposition from Oak Bay residents. But last night, although a show of hands indicated more than half the audience to be opposed to the new plan, there was considerably less opposition after the question period when a number of points were clarified and explained.

COMPLIMENTS

Three people who admitted being opposed to the first apartment building plan, complimented the board on its second plan but asked for guarantees that any university plan approved by the people would not be changed once that approval was shown.

The plan showed that the land between the existing university buildings and Kendall Road has a drop of 120 feet. This means, said Floyd Fairclough, development board manager explaining the scheme, that a 12-story apartment building could be erected without spoiling the view from existing homes.

Two such buildings are proposed plus several two and three-story buildings. Shown on the drawing—more as a decoration than anything else—was an ornamental pool with a Japanese tea house on the banks, and this raised an objection.

Also objected to was the location of a church at the corner of Lansdowne and Foul Bay Road but Harold Elworthy, development board chairman said that the locale was not settled.

This was confirmed later by a smokesman for St. Philip's Church who said that a price and acreage had been agreed on but not the location.

The church will be located to suit the development plan. Fears were expressed that there might be a fire hazard because there was no exit to the Saanich side.

FUTURE FREEWAYS?

Another resident asked if Henderson and Foul Bay roads might not become freeways to Gordon Head, but it was pointed out that with 630 suites there would be fewer cars in the vicinity than there are now.

There would be no super-market-type parking lots, said Mr. Fairclough, but two-story basement parking.

He also stressed that the existing wild land is "just an undeveloped area" now but would be park-like under the development scheme.

'RESIDENTIAL CHARM' There was some objection to what a resident called "garden apartments" but which are "town houses," that is, a complex of four or six units around a central private court.

Architect John D'Castris, who explained he had nothing to do with the scheme, said that such town houses had "residential charm."

Revenue was discussed and Mr. Elworthy explained that the difference between the sale of the land for single residences and commercial development was between $500,000 and $600,000.

FROM $150 TO $300 A MONTH

The apartments would rent for from $150 to $300 a month and this would bring in more than $750,000 a year once the buildings were paid for, Mr. Fairclough said, even if the average net return was $100 per suite.

H. L. Matthews, a strong critic of the original apartment plan, complimented the board on the new proposal but asked for guarantees of the board's intention.

Mr. Elworthy said he would like to see a committee of four or five people to represent the ratepayers in discussion of such problems with the board and he suggested Mr. Matthews would be a valuable member.

Such a committee is to be formed and discussions between board and ratepayers will be held.

Big Problem: Rhodesia

Commonwealth amid the stresses of new nationhood and shifting world patterns.

The dangerous deadlock over Southern Rhodesia could have far-reaching consequences for the Commonwealth, some sources believe, if African members tried to force Britain's hand.

FAVORS BLACK RULE

On one side, the African countries are trying to persuade Britain to introduce black rule in Southern Rhodesia at once. On the other, the Southern Rhodesia white minority is threatening to seize independence and continue its domination. Britain's plan, it is understood, is for a black majority within five years in the Rhodesian government.

ELECTION YEAR

Douglas - Home and Harold Wilson, Labor party leader, tend to vie with each other in lauding the Commonwealth link in this election year. But criticism of the unique body is widespread and has been since the shocks of South Africa's withdrawal and Britain's failed attempt to enter the European Common Market.

Many devoutly pro-Commonwealth folk have been profoundly disturbed by such things as the rebellion in Zanzibar, the dictatorial acts of

Banks' Talk of 'Punk' Told by Eyewitness

MONTREAL (CP)—A Crown witness testified Thursday that Hal C. Banks, former president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), told him a few days before the beating of Capt. Henry Francis Walsh in 1957 that something would have to be done to "that punk Walsh."

Capt. J. J. Deslauriers, 71, of Montreal, who was "an official of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild (CLC) in 1957, said Banks called him to his office to complain that Walsh, a guild organizer, was having discussions with certain marine engineers.

"Banks appeared very agitated," the witness said. He quoted Banks as saying "after all I've done for his son... It's about time to take action, time to do something to that punk Walsh."

Capt. Deslauriers said Richard Greaves, then an official of the National Association of Marine Engineers (CLC), was with him in Banks' office at the time.

Called as a rebuttal witness, Capt. Deslauriers gave his evidence following testimony by Banks himself, who spent between five and six hours on the witness stand Wednesday and Thursday.

The defence rested its case after Banks' testimony. The trial was adjourned until Monday, when the Crown plans to call at least one more witness.

President Nkrumah in Ghana and the army mutinies in Tanganyika and Kenya.

On a less spectacular plane, regional links have grown within Commonwealth countries—Canada with the United States, Australia and New Zealand with their Asian neighbors and the Africa as a countries among themselves.

The forthcoming conference, in the view of Britons of both main parties, will have the task of breathing new life into the Commonwealth.

Shoplift Study

logist called by the defence, said he knew of Schatroph's shoplifting trouble and his plan to shoplift. He had tried to persuade him there were other ways to accomplish his purpose.

He also told the court how Schatroph had planted a bogus bomb under the porch at the White House in Washington.

The "bomb" was actually the top of an oxygen tank which Schatroph had taken from a Russian ship here in 1959. It bore Russian printing and Schatroph had written "fake atomic bomb" across the top and then carried it across the border several times to show "the insecurity of the border."

Then he had gone to Washington and planted it on the White House grounds in an episode which produced headlines at the time.

Court was told Russian-born Schatroph left the Soviet Union in 1931 and went to the Orient as an inventor. In Russia, he had invented a door chime that played a tune when someone came through the front door—and played the same tune backwards when someone came through the back door.

He last appeared in the news in 1961 when he applied in a Vancouver newspaper want ad column for a job as secretary-general of the United Nations.

Magistrate Isman said it was "one of the most interesting and fascinating half hours of evidence I have ever listened to." He said, however, that Schatroph had been "too realistic in his study of the problem of shoplifting."

"I'm convinced," said the magistrate, "that the accused believes in what he is attempting to do so I'm placing him on suspended sentence and order that he put up a $1,000 bond to keep the peace for two years."

He also ordered Schatroph to keep out of the department store where he stole the fork.

Said Schatroph: "Shoplifting is a social problem and to change it there has to be a sacrifice."

Stick Toe in Bucket of Bees —That's How Gout Feels

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Following a lapsed test, our doctor diagnosed my husband's toe pain as gout. This has been a blow, because he recalls the pain that an uncle of mine had with gout around 1947. What causes this disease? Is it curable? What is the customary treatment?

My husband's work requires him to do a lot of walking in all kinds of weather. Do you think that another doctor might give a different diagnosis, or is the blood test final?—MRS. F. F.

A patient with severe gout will not on quite a show of the pain he is experiencing—and I don't blame him. It can feel like sticking your toe into a bucket of bees.

But at the same time, I think you are wrong in trying to get some different diagnosis. The question isn't how much your uncle hurt in 1947, but how much your husband hurts now, and what can be done for him.

A high concentration of urates (salts of uric acid) is characteristic of gout. The urates form into small deposits at various joints, the big toe being a favorite site but not the only one.

We don't know what causes this. It is not "curable." But the treatment for gout has improved considerably in recent years. Since 1947.

STILL USEFUL An old drug, colchicine, is still very useful, but new ones, principally benamid, give us other ways to control gout. Correct combination of the new and old drugs gives excellent results. The first purpose is to prevent further attacks; the second purpose is to stop them quickly if they occur.

There may be some flareups, but they will be subdued. Discard the idea that gout is the worst thing that can happen. It isn't.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do you have any remedy for frostbitten toes? I have had this trouble for several years when it gets extra cold.—MRS. F. C.

Once toes (or ears, nose, fingers) have been frostbitten, they are extra sensitive to repeated attacks. One of the vasodilating drugs prescribed by your physician may give relief. You just have to be careful not to expose yourself to extreme cold. It isn't hard to convince a man not to go out in cold weather without wearing heavy socks. It is not so easy to convince a woman.

A great many women have them, and while it is wise to check them periodically, there is no reason to remove them unless they cause discomfort or trouble of some sort.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have fibroids in the womb. My gynecologist says I should not be alarmed, as he will check them periodically to watch their growth. Are they ever cancerous?

Do you feel I should consult another doctor? Is this the usual thing to do?—L. L.

No, it isn't the usual thing to do. There are times when consultation with another doctor is very wise, but this isn't one of them.

Fibroids are not cancerous. A great many women have them, and while it is wise to check them periodically, there is no reason to remove them unless they cause discomfort or trouble of some sort.

Designs for Flag Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—A spokesman for the prime minister's office said Thursday night that several designs for a new Canadian flag—with and without the Maple Leaf—are receiving favorable consideration from the government.

He stressed, however, that no final choice has been made.

'Jolly Good Show'

Canadian Warning Cooled Cypriot Tempers

LONDON (CP)—A stern warning by the Canadian United Nations force in Cyprus is credited by British correspondents with sharply reducing fighting on the island.

John Osmen writes in The Daily Telegraph that except for a few bursts of automatic fire across the so-called green line separating Greek and Turkish Cypriots, the Nicosia capital was quiet Thursday.

"The declaration that Canadian troops of the UN force would fire if either side crossed the green line without authority or if Canadian lives were endangered by direct fire or ricochets, seems to have had an immediate effect."

British troops—in whose sector the only shooting occurred—apparently appreciate the Canadian move but were still interpreting their UN mandate "less strongly."

"Jolly good show," one British officer told Osmen. "Just what is needed to make the Cypriots see sense."

Peter Preston in the Guardian of Manchester and Osmen both write of higher morale now among the Canadians.

Preston says, however, some sources think "there is danger that the Canadians could be too tough in a situation which, till now, has simply had to be coped with by tact and persuasion."

The UN mediator in Cyprus, Sakari Tuomioja of Finland, leaves Nicosia for Ankara and Athens today.

There was speculation in Nicosia that the mediator may discuss the question of placing the Greek and Turkish army contingents based on the island under UN command.

Makarios Says Rebel Leader Studying Idea of Returning

NICOSIA (CP)—Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus, returned Thursday night from Athens and said a full identity of views on the future handling of the Cyprus problem had been reached during his talks with the Greek government.

The archbishop told an airport press conference that former EOKA chief Gen. George Grivas has not yet decided whether to accept his invitation to come to Cyprus. Grivas led the Cyprus independence movement against British forces.

"He is still considering the time," the archbishop said. Makarios said he is satisfied with the role the United Nations has played in the island to date.

Russians Reject Arms Freeze Plan

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States Thursday presented details of President Johnson's sweeping plan to end the nuclear arms race by freezing the production of nuclear missiles and strategic bombers. The Soviet Union immediately rejected it.

American disarmament negotiator Adrian Fisher, acting on specific instructions from the president, said the proposed freeze would include the bombers, all land-based missiles with a range of more than 625 miles, and sea-based missiles—including the Polaris—with a range of more than 60 miles.

Soviet disarmament negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin, replying in the 17-nation disarmament conference, said the plan was "unacceptable."

Tsarapkin accused the U.S. of substituting controls for disarmament and attempting to spy on Russia by "controlling arms which constitute the defensive might of the Soviet Union."

A Dirty Face

AMONG THE several improvements that will present visitors with an even more attractive impression of Victoria this summer, and please its own citizens too, work is already in progress on the voluntary external refurbishing of business premises along Government Street in accordance with a harmonious overall plan, and the hope is that in the next two or three months the co-operative effort will bear its full fruits of new brightness and beauty.

This makes the time all the more opportune—pressing, indeed—for equivalent action across the Inner Harbor. The stone of the legislative buildings needs no paint, and no thought for a new color scheme. But it does need cleaning. For 34 years, since it was last restored to its original appearance, it has been accumulating grime. The centre of government in beautiful British Columbia has a dirty face.

It may be that Mr. Bennett and Mr. Chant are thinking in terms of the impact that would be created if the cleaning were set to coincide with the construction of the new provincial museum across Douglas Street which is intended to be B.C.'s Confederation centenary memorial, and hopefully with the creation of the Causeway promenade which is a long-standing goal of the city.

But the legislative buildings wouldn't lose much of their recovered charm of soft coloring in three or four years were the cleaning undertaken now. There is less oily smoke from steamers in the harbor than there used to be, giving promise that a fresh countenance will linger longer than in the past. And it would be a distinct encouragement to private beautification endeavors in downtown Victoria if the government could find the money this spring to match them in this respect.

Bold Chancellor

FEW GOVERNMENTS in recent years have had the temerity to risk their popularity by imposing higher taxes on the commodities that form "the pleasures of life" for the man in the street.

This week, Chancellor of the Exchequer Reginald Maudling of Britain took the bit between his teeth, increased the duties on beer, spirits, wine and tobacco, and did so despite the fact that his government is due to go to the people within the next six months.

If ever there was a non-vote-catching budget, this one of Mr. Maudling's should rank near the top. He has apparently risked losing the battle of the booths because he felt this was the way for Britain to face its current economic difficulties.

Mr. Maudling could have imposed higher rates of tax and other levies on industry. He could have throttled expansion in other ways. But he told the country plainly that the export drive must be stepped up, and that the revenue the treasury so badly needs must come from the domestic consumer.

Mr. Maudling, however, found quick support from one sector of the British public. Investors greeted his bold budget by initiating a buying spree that took the London Stock Exchange industrial average to a new high for 1964, through a spectacular one session rise of nearly five per cent. Even the distilleries, breweries and tobaccos, all affected by the higher taxation on their products, shared in the general rise.

The London Stock Exchange had expected something a great deal less palatable than Mr. Maudling's medicine for he has gone only part way towards evening up the excess of expenditures over revenue.

But whether his prescription will be as popular with Mr. Public when he goes to the polls as it has been with the investors, only the counting of the votes will tell.

Air Pollution

A RECENT invasion of Vancouver by a nasty smell borne on the breeze from somewhere else has led to a renewed call in that city for provincial acceptance of responsibility for combating air pollution.

To paraphrase a remark in the legislature at the last session, in thriving and growing British Columbia the odor of industry is the odor of jobs and money. The same can be said of smoke and cinders.

But that does not mean that while these nuisances can be much alleviated and sometimes eliminated without putting the sources out of business—and experience has shown that they can—their detrimental effects can be shrugged off.

The provincial government though has displayed no intention of getting into the field of air pollution control. Its view seems to be that this is a matter for individual municipalities. Such an attitude ignores the fact that a fouled atmosphere, as newly demonstrated to Vancouver residents' disgust, may be a travelling thing that pays no heed to municipal borders, nor its distant producers to municipal orders.

No one would deny credit to the many British Columbia plants in unregulated areas that of their own accord have made expensive efforts to diminish the offensiveness of their gaseous outpourings. But few would doubt that the endeavors of these companies would be even more effective, and that others with less concern for their public relations would be brought closer into line, with the prodding and the help of a provincial authority.

Pale Pink

MR. T. C. DOUGLAS (Burnaby-Coquitlam): Mr. Speaker, may I be allowed to compliment the Prime Minister and his supporters on their very colorful appearance—

Some hon. Members: Hear, hear.

Mr. Douglas:—and to say that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. In view of the fact that this is the anniversary of the last election, and since the government has watered down nearly all of its policies in the year that has transpired—

Some hon. Members: Hear, hear.

Mr. Douglas:—may I ask the Prime Minister whether he does not think that the red carnations which he and his supporters are wearing might more appropriately be replaced by pale pink carnations?

Right Hon. L. B. Pearson (Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, if we had pale pink carnations we might be accused of being fellow travellers of my hon. friend.

Some hon. Members: Hear, hear.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships,

By TOM TAYLOR

THE commercial puppet on the small screen was advising us about milk, a sort of new variety to the domestic scene, instant, but milk just the same. And proclaiming as a certain comedian does of other metre, "how sweet it is." Verily a mouthful, as it were, for is not milk symbolic of the good things of life?

Bah! think so, I'm sure. And not just white, as television ads say of another commodity, but milky white.

The milky way itself, high in the heavens and best seen on a clear icy prairie night, is so-called because the stars seem to run into one another like a stream of white liquid. And when the stars shine nothing damp falls on those below.

That itself must be reckoned among the goodies.

Milk at any rate has come to be associated with beneficence. The reference goes back to Biblical times. When Jacob blessed his son Judah he said of him that "his eyes shall be red with wine and his teeth white with milk."

The combination, withal, seems rather strange, and in the modern motoring age somewhat anti-social. Red eyes do not go very well with milk drinking, and as we have cause to realize, it is better that the last one for the road be colored white rather than red. But milk and wine were consumed in the days of ancient Israel, vide Solomon who sings "I have drunk my wine with my milk." The Israelites, also, we remember, were promised a land "flowing with milk and honey."

Milk is thus well established as a benefactor. Canada may not loom initially at all its newcomers as a land of milk and honey but it produces lots of milk, something like two billion gallons a year, I believe.

Its cows do, that is. And that should be enough to float a whole navy, almost.

We talk about pouring oil on troubled waters but milk should be equally effective. A pity they don't try it at disarmament conclaves. It has a soothing influence.

You may judge this by watching teenagers at lunch counters refreshing themselves with this particular beverage, their physique belying the ancient and belittling term of "milkpuss."

So did the husky young workmen of the last war. I am told the milk bars in local military centres did more business than the wet canteens.

I rather doubt that this could be said of their predecessors of an earlier fray.

This naturally suggests the changing ways of society. Except for the red eyes we are reaching back to the preference of the Israelites. No wonder perhaps we talk of "the milk of human kindness."

It was Shakespeare who first coined the phrase but he was a student of history and must have known his Bible.

Milk then is good for the soul as well as for the digestion. Perversely however we have attached other connotations; no word or sentence is safe against misdirection or a new nuance. Thus we liken "milk in the coconut" to some dark menace lurking in the woodpile, when all the while the coconut's milk is sweet and lovely.

Or we change the color of milk from white to grey by giving it a shady hue, as in "milking him dry," or refer to the "milch cow" who falls easy prey to unscrupulous rogues.

But as the proverb says "It is no good crying over spilt milk," and the milk that's spilled semantically in the wrong direction does not count. Milk has been closely allied to man since the days of early dawn and it's still a potent force.

If you don't believe me ask your milkman Nor, by the way, is this a TV commercial. Although maybe I should ask a fee for it.

Extraordinary Spectacle

Britain's Fleeting Youth

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN
from London

THE most suffocating, inconclusive and boring subject in Britain today is youth. It is also quite inescapable. It has gone on without a break and in a steadily mounting crescendo of denunciation, defence and prurient curiosity ever since the war.

Of course it is the extremes of behavior that attract the fascinated attention—the dance-hall brawls, the midnight fights at bus stations at which a young man is stabbed in front of spectators who stay spectators, the senseless car-stealing, the cat-wrecks after a dispute about "birds" (girls) that could not be unravelled except by violence, the traffic in minor stimulatory drugs.

It is an endless, repetitive development of the same unchanging theme and it had its climax recently in a weekend holiday brawl at the respectable seaside resort of Clacton. In fact accounts of what happened there are both unreliable and contradictory.

It seems about a thousand young people arrived, by coach, car, motorcycle and by scooter. They were bored; they began to fight; they clashed with the police; they caused a few hundred pounds worth of damage; some were arrested and they all went home in the sort of blaze of publicity that is usually kept for a change of government.

For those British readers who like to have their flesh made to creep—and apparently an enormous number do—there exist other sources of pleasurable disapproval. But there are the tumbled young people, making their own morality as they go along, who support with a martyr's passion the campaign for nuclear disarmament.

Or there are the young Socialists who recently held their annual meeting at Blackpool and caused considerable dismay in the ranks of the Labor Party. There was nothing much to distinguish them from old-fashioned Communists.

They approved of a people's bomb but not of a Western bomb. They extolled East Germany. Their plans for nationalization would, if implemented, leave Britain as regimented as Russia.

But the fact remains that most young people are still preoccupied with the old things: getting a job, getting married, getting settled, getting on. Perhaps the new element in them is the expectation—once confined to the privileged classes—that they should have a good time in the process.

Before the war, this new "class" of youth was hardly noticed as such. Young people accepted adult values at face value. The rebels among them became Communists or Fascists or criminals and left it at that. Now there is a wide spectrum of rebellious postures to choose from.

The oddest and most brainless of these expresses itself in apparel. Money is available to these young people from unskilled jobs. Their turbulence and rebelliousness tend to make them unacceptable to their parents and they have now unconsciously grouped themselves into two quite definable "movements."

They are the "Mods" who wear Italianate clothing of far-out design. They are said to spend about £6 a week on their appearance. They may be office boys or factory hands, but at leisure they burst out into a flimsy rather sad-looking elegance. Their favorite symbol is the motor-scooter. They dance the twist and their girls dress with an almost equal care.

There are the "Rockers" whose regulation clothing is black leather and jeans of the most aggressive rough-work type. Their money goes on motor-cycles which they repair themselves. Their pleasure is speed and, of course, the girls. Neither set puts much store by drinking. They whirl like stallions round the edge of cities from one dim, tea-accented cafe to another, roaring their chosen vehicles, flaunting their uniforms and their girls. The two groups do not mingle, and occasionally when, as at Clacton, they meet, there is trouble.

Both are preoccupied with the idea of sex and with the fact of themselves. Both love the publicity they get and are always ready to oblige a reporter with some blood-chilling aphorism. And almost all of them in a few years time will have been supplanted by a new youth and a new fashion and will be starting their lives a little late and from the bottom.

In fact, of course, the number who live this pointless way of life is very small. And the damage they do of little importance. Football team supporters are both more dangerous and more destructive.

Certainly the gap between youth and age is wider now than ever in the history of this country. It is a symptom of radical change in the nature of a society. There seems no obvious solution to it and it is easier therefore to sit back and watch this extraordinary passing spectacle. This is what most people are doing.

Washington Calling

Strange Currents

By MARQUES CHILDS from San Francisco

THREE months from now 1,306 delegates to the Republican National Convention will meet in Cow Palace here to choose a candidate for president. What his name will be is, in the Churchillian phrase, a mystery wrapped in an enigma surrounded by a riddle.

Almost as uncertain is how much the nomination will be worth. For strange things are happening in the Republican party. Deep undercurrents of passion and prejudice are at work in both parties and how profoundly they will alter the familiar pattern of American political life no one can predict.

The ultra-right here is capturing the Republican State Central Committee and from that vantage point will determine the policies and the strategy of the party in the largest state in the union. This will happen even if Gov. Nelson Rockefeller should win over Sen. Barry Goldwater in the June 2 primary so cleverly have the Birchers and their allies placed their candidates on the ballot.

Republican leaders long accustomed to taking responsibility for the direction of the party are being pushed out. They feel something like despair as they see the success of the tactics of a radical splinter group in a state in which moderation has been the rule. Joseph Martin Jr., who stepped aside as Republican national committeeman to work for Rockefeller and moderation, has on his desk in his law office a documented study of how the ultras took control of the Republican organization in Oakland across the bay. Infiltration, constant harassment, meetings prolonged until two and three in the morning with fanatics staying on to take over after reasonable men had left in disgust, these techniques have been used effectively by Communists and Fascists and they are proving effective here.

Is this the beginning of a new era? Or is it merely a case of political measles brought out by the stresses and strains of a time of revolutionary change? Leaders caught in the ultra-right buzz saw hesitate to use words like totalitarian and Fascist, remembering how recently Communist was a smear word generously applied. But it may not be oversimplifying to describe what is happening as a conflict between the politics of reason and the politics of fanaticism and unreason.

One of the undercurrents broke the surface in Wisconsin with the 200,000 votes for Gov. George Wallace, the arch-segregationist, in the primary there. This lesson will not be lost on California, for on the ballot in the fall will be a proposal to abolish the Rumford Act prohibiting discrimination in sale and rental of housing.

Not only does it wipe out the state law but, through a constitutional amendment, all legislation on discrimination in housing at whatever level of government would be prohibited. Thus far only 53 cases have been handled under the Rumford Act, with 33 still pending, which seems a small number in view of the great influx of minority groups into California.

Yet it appears to have caused a deep uneasiness which the ultras are quick to exploit—your home is not safe, you can lose everything you've put into it, "they" can tell you you have to sell to a Negro or a Japanese. This is calculated to stir unreasoning prejudice in millions.

These risks are defensible in bad weather, otherwise sailing would be well-nigh impossible. But the same precautions must be taken as in the days before radar. Speed must be reduced, extra lookouts posted, and the ship's siren frequently sounded.

The instruments, however, tend to create a sense of false security, and officers are often not as punctilious regarding traditional measures as they ought to be. Worse still, they tend more and more to rely upon instruments in all kinds of weather.

It is undeniably easier to do so. A Danish officer told me that it requires a certain amount of character to move to the end of the bridge and take optical sights, when the radio apparatus hangs so tantalizingly close to the chart table. "I always do so," he said, "but there are many that don't. Not the older sea dogs, though. They've got a healthy suspicion of all new contrivances until they have been proved beyond a shadow of a doubt. It's the younger ones who cause most of the trouble. Although they get all the necessary training in traditional navigation, they prefer radio because it's so easy. Why fiddle with tables and parallel rulers when some electronic circuit will do the job? I think you'll find that some recently certificated mates have never navigated in earnest without radio."

Night sailing in coastal waters will always be hazardous, and there is no short way round a thorough acquaintance with lighthouses, the codes of flashing beacons, and careful work with sextant and protractor. Together, electronic and traditional methods provide greater safety at sea, but total dependence upon radio waves, as the figures show, can create a new danger.

Premier Bennett is now telling us to quit being seriously minded, and learn to laugh at ourselves. Nice going. If we can keep it up, but a day of reckoning is upon us, and the banking business is a very serious business, so we might just as well get our house in order.

A. CAROLYN BAYFIELD,

Not Foolproof

Radar Perils

By ROLAND HUNTFORD
from Copenhagen

THE GROWTH of electronic navigation aids, designed to reduce accidents at sea, has resulted in a new kind of peril—the so-called "radar collisions." These are caused by slavish navigation by instrument, errors in equipment, and neglect of elementary precautions. Such accidents are a troubling Scandinavian shipowners and underwriters, whose fleets make up over a quarter of the world's merchant tonnage, and which sail in constricted and crowded waters.

A recent investigation by marine insurance companies in Finland, Sweden, Norway and Denmark showed that in 1960, 61 Scandinavian ships were involved in 46 radar collisions and suffered damage costing $12 million.

Of these 46 radar collisions, exactly half took place in the Sound (the narrow entrance to the Baltic running between Denmark and Sweden) and the English Channel. These are probably the most crowded waters in Europe. If not in the world, and an officer on watch has a nightmarish responsibility.

It is both the strength and deficiency of modern navigational equipment that ships may now be called "blind." Radar detects other craft up to 50 miles away, and sophisticated systems of radio beacons enable navigating officers to fix their positions to within a hundred yards with the flick of a dial. Together they make sailing possible in thick fog, which is the bane of northern waters.

However, they are by no means foolproof. Radio beams can bend, giving errors in position of several miles, which can be fatal along a broken coastline. Freak conditions conditions can also obliterate the "echo" of a ship on the radar screen.

These risks are defensible in bad weather, otherwise sailing would be well-nigh impossible. But the same precautions must be taken as in the days before radar. Speed must be reduced, extra lookouts posted, and the ship's siren frequently sounded.

The instruments, however, tend to create a sense of false security, and officers are often not as punctilious regarding traditional measures as they ought to be. Worse still, they tend more and more to rely upon instruments in all kinds of weather.

It is undeniably easier to do so. A Danish officer told me that it requires a certain amount of character to move to the end of the bridge and take optical sights, when the radio apparatus hangs so tantalizingly close to the chart table. Turkey declared war on Greece 67 years ago today—in 1897. Revolt had been in progress on Crete since 1890 and Greece hoped to annex the island. Turkey declared war on the ground that Greece inspired the revolt. Turkey inflicted a severe defeat on Greece, but intervention by the European powers ended the war and Crete was put under international control.

Our Readers' Views

To be considered for publication in whole or in part, letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 300 words in length, and, if signed with a pseudonym, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

I must let the people of this city know now that this firm shall and will be, on that black list, and with no regrets. We have the government now telling us what to do, and what not to do, and that's enough.

Peace Hopes Depend on Khrushchev's Survival

BREZHNEV
... his apparent

The shock, anguish and fear which greeted the reports of Premier Khrushchev's death, dramatized the general feeling that the cause of peace will be served best by his survival.

His death at this time would be of advantage only to Communist China, in the minds of experienced observers.

The Soviet premier's survival for at least a few more years is regarded as essential to the so-called liberalization of the Soviet Union, a phenomenon which, by then, would be self-perpetuating.

No one outside the Kremlin can interpret the internal affairs of the Soviet Union accurately because of the massive security which still shrouds the apparatus of government and politics. But two things seem clear:

● Khrushchev's leadership and his new interpretation of Marx continue to be susceptible to challenge within the Soviet Union. There is still enough power behind his critics so that they might wrest control of the country, particularly in a bitter succession fight. But Khrushchev's power is increasing.

● Khrushchev is the man most likely to succeed in consolidating world Communist party strength behind the more liberal Soviet position in the increasingly bitter controversy with Communist China.

Any change in Soviet leadership at this time would have far-reaching impact on the world.

At worst, it could shatter the embryonic detente created in the wake of the Cuban missile controversy, and bring the world back to the game of nuclear brinkmanship.

At best, it could delay the evolution of international communism into national Communist movements, with their better prospects for peaceful co-existence emphasizing economic rivalry rather than military.

Profound changes have taken place in the Soviet Union since the death of Stalin in 1953. Given a few more years, the development will be so much a part of the nation's fabric that regression will be impossible.

Even now, there appears to be no domestic political force capable of stemming the trend toward more intellectual freedom.

a market-type economy with greater emphasis on consumer goods, a society motivated largely by national self-interest and less driven by an ideological urge to evangelize and conquer the world.

But, there is little doubt that there would be a challenge to any one succeeding Khrushchev.

The most likely successor is Leonid I. Brezhnev, President of the Soviet Union, who is 57.

Brezhnev is a middle of the road person in Soviet terms, however. He would immediately face pressure from the Stalinists, seeking to regain control.

And there would be pressure from the heirs of Khrushchev within the party apparatus as well as from the new, young breed of intellectuals for whom the economic development is primary and Communist politics secondary.

Such a power struggle at this time would vastly weaken the leadership of the Soviet Union in the world at large as well as in the bitter intra-party struggle with Peking.

These implications are well understood in eastern Europe. These countries have enjoyed a revival of nationalism which is significant even if feeble in comparison with changes in the free world. The political institutions of Hungary, for example, have exceeded anything proposed by the regime that was crushed by Khrushchev in 1956, and the same sense of independence has pervaded the remainder of the bloc, notably in Poland, but even in Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

But, as long as Soviet troops remain in these countries, as

RAF Strafing in Yemen Pledge to Arab Ruler

By NICHOLAS CARROLL
From London

The reprisal strafing of a Yemeni border fort at Harib recently by the Royal Air Force which was condemned in a UN Security Council resolution was in fulfillment of British engagements to support a minor Arab ruler against aggression.

It was also a reminder that the Arabian coastal region from the north of the Persian Gulf down to Aden is studded with sheikhdoms, sultanates and emirates whom Britain is pledged, implicitly or explicitly, to defend.

Britain's involvement in the area goes back three centuries, when trade with Persia was being developed by the East India Company.

British interests gradually changed from purely commercial affairs to moral issues such as suppression of piracy and slavery, and to great power status issues such as protection of the line of communications to the eastern Asian dependencies opened up by the Suez Canal, and the exclusion of European and other rivals from the oil-rich Persian Gulf.

Piracy was virtually ended in the 1850s with the signing of a "perpetual maritime truce" with the worst offenders; hence the name "trucial coast" states which has stuck to this day.

Later came a series of so-called "exclusive" treaties under which Arab rulers undertook not to "cede, mortgage or part with any part of their territories to anyone except Britain, nor to enter into a relationship with any other state without British consent."

Area Pacts Abound

In return, Britain undertook to protect the Arab rulers from outside attack.

The complexities of British involvement in the area today, working from north to south, are summarized below:

Kuwait. Under an agreement of 1899 Britain undertook explicitly to go to the aid of the ruler if he was attacked; that agreement lapsed as Kuwait became fully independent, but in a new agreement with the present ruler, Sheikh Abdullah as-Salem as Sabah, in 1961 it was confirmed that "the two countries' relations should continue to be governed by a spirit of close friendship."

Bahrain. The ruler, Sheikh Isa bin Salman, is protected by a convention of 1861, under which the ruler undertook to refrain from war, piracy and slavery by sea in return for British support against external aggression.

Qatar. The ruler, Sheikh

Astronauts' Health Causing Concern

By FRANK MACOMBER

Is weightlessness damaging the health of U.S. astronauts? Lt.-Col. John Glenn Jr. travelled around the world in space for three orbits. He was in space only a few hours. Yet this former athlete and jet pilot fell down in his bathroom while he was trying to fix the door on the medicine cabinet.

Now Astronaut Alan B. Shepard, a navy commander, has been grounded because he is having dizzy spells. He was in space only about five minutes. Space doctors are beginning to wonder whether weightlessness has affected U.S. astronauts.

Shepard, who made the first U.S. suborbital flight May 5, 1961, had been considered a favorite for the first Gemini two-man trip late this year. But said Paul Haney, National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman for the astronauts, he has been having trouble with his left ear, along with dizziness. He was disqualified.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, NASA

chief of medical operations, says Shepard is suffering from loss of hearing, a ringing noise in his ear and dizziness.

Haney said the Russians have admitted that Cosmonaut Gherman Titov during his space flight felt nauseated part of the time because of "unusual irritation" of the vestibular apparatus, the vestibule of the inner ear.

Haney said the Russians in 1962 made changes in cosmonaut training to increase the stability of the vestibular apparatus—the organ of space sense.

NASA doctors are studying the cases of both Shepard and Glenn in an effort to determine whether weightlessness is a foe to the human body.

The Gemini flights of two astronauts will go up to two weeks. The Apollo flights to the moon and back will last about the same time. Later, astronauts will go into space aboard orbiting stations for months at a time, unless space doctors decide that man should be grounded because he is ruining his health in space.

Even without Wampo, Lungnak and Trashi Phub,

Seagram's V.O. is still the largest-selling Canadian Whisky in the world!

There are towns in Tibet where no V.O. is sold. But these are greatly outnumbered by the cities, towns and hamlets in 130 countries where V.O. is sold. In fact, more Seagram's V.O. is sold throughout the world than any other whisky exported from any country.

Why? We think it must be the quality of the product. The mellow flavour of Seagram's V.O. combines brilliance of taste with lightness of tone—and this balance of good taste never varies. As a result, V.O. is enjoyed by a world of people from Karachi to Kilauea. So remember... V.O., V.O., wherever you are!

Unmarried Parenthood Problems Increase Here

Counselling services on problems of unmarried parenthood increased in 1963 by more than 50 per cent, the general meeting of the Family and Children's Service was told last night.

"There were 319 families involved," Gordon Wright, executive director, said.

He said 146 illegitimate children were born in the Victoria area.

Those Pink-Tinted Birds Also Seen on Prairies

LAKE COWICHAN — Salt wings spread, and it is pink—a shade known by women as "shocking pink."

"It was dyed at Chatsaugus, Ill., in 1857, and shot at Moose Lake by an Indian the next spring."

"They are dyed by biologists, as although they may winter in a certain area, they have their own flyways and it is interesting to know where they fork out in various directions."

"The experiment has also been tried with other birds, notably swans and I believe even some types of owls, and I think some were dyed green."

"They are banded at the same time, but people who might see a bird with such strange coloring would probably make it known to a game official and they would report it."

"There is a gull of the Prairies, called the Franklin gull, that is a lovely carmine pink, but the coloring can hardly be seen unless one is actually handling a newly-banded bird."

"This color fades from the feathers after the bird has been dead a few days."

Chemistry Professor In Research Group

Dr. W. J. Wallace is one of a number of University of Victoria chemistry professors who have received National Research Council grants.

Dr. Wallace is working with

Dr. R. P. Robinson on bridging the gaps between organic and inorganic chemistry by studying the reactions of inorganic chemistry with organic molecules to form complex compounds.

358 Pints of Blood Given in Two Days

Victorians gave 358 pints of blood to Red Cross Society clinics in the last two days.

Wednesday 211 people, including 80 inmates of William Head

Penitentiary, responded to the Red Cross appeals.

Yesterday afternoon 73 people and last night 74 people made donations at the last two sessions.

'... To Fix Your Town'

PORT ALBERNI—A group of Victoria children has raised $113 for Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund. Their contribution was received by Mayor Les Hamner along with a letter in which the six signers said "We all hope you will use this in any way to fix up your town."

The letter, from 2590 Penikese Street, Victoria, was signed by Betty-Anne, Bob and Patricia Goss, Peggy and Grant Logan, and Valerie Barnes.

The mayor was informed that the children had held a concert and "passed a dish" for contributions.

'Gentle' Crash

Footsore Fliers Walk Out

CAMPBELL RIVER — Two Campbell River men suffered nothing worse than tired feet, but Trans-Mountain Air Services lost the use of a Fleet 50 Canuck training plane, in a crash Wednesday on Texada Island.

Pilot-instructor Don Mathieson and student pilot Morris Waldref were on a routine training flight out of Campbell River and had made a successful practice landing at a remote logging company landing strip on the east side of Texada Island.

DOWN DRAFT

On take-off, at about 1:45 p.m., the craft had climbed to 250 feet when it hit a down-draft and was forced down into an alder thicket which made the landing almost gentle.

The two men climbed out and set off on a nearby logging road for civilization. Five miles later they came to a dead end and had to return to the plane.

Nearby they found a small, abandoned logging camp where they took shelter for the night.

HIKED MILES

Early Thursday the men climbed a 2,000 foot ridge, then hiked 25 miles through the brush to the Forbes Bay Logging operations on the west coast of Texada.

Loggers there fed them and called an aircraft to pick them up. Later an Island Airlines Beaver piloted by Bob Savage returned the men to Campbell River.

BIGGEST JOB

Forrest Cochrane, owner of Trans-Mountain, said the airframe and engine of the damaged Fleet trainer were salvageable, but the biggest job would be getting them out.

The trainer was purchased from Victoria Flying Club, and is well-known to Vancouver Island and coastal pilots who took their first training at her controls.

Teachers Attend Language Parley

Five members of the University of Victoria modern languages department are attending the Pacific Northwest Conferences on Foreign Languages at Missoula, Montana.

At the conference, which ends Saturday, are Dr. W. H. Hickman, Dr. J. B. MacLean, J. E. Travis, Miss Barbara Richardson and Miss Adriana Stancescu.

Social Ills Not Stressed Enough

"We are not outlining social issues of today in such a way that others will listen, let alone be stirred into action," a meeting of the Family and Children's Service was told last night.

Deryk Thomson, executive director of the Family Service Agency of Greater Vancouver, told more than 125 members the reasons may be many.

Among them are too much reliance on social planning or welfare councils; too much middle-class conformity; reluctance to displease the corporate donor of the United Fund or the politician with the purse strings.

"And yes, in some instances, a misguided sense of professionalism," Mr. Thomson said.

He said today's society is known as a child-centred society, yet social services in today's metropolitan centres must not only attempt to help a larger number of unmarried mothers and mentally ill or grossly neglected children but in many communities must deal with higher rates of these symptoms of social breakdown than have ever prevailed previously.

He said volunteer agencies should set the pace in dealing with the problems presented by social work and not lag behind government agencies.

He said Victoria was fortunate in having the family and children's services united and pointed out there were many communities that were striving for united services.

He predicted a considerable increase in volunteer workers.

"People's awareness that something is afoot in our society is heightened. They feel helpless to control the international scene but they are compensating for that by investing their time and talents on the local scene."

Dr. Alfred Carlsen, Frank Hilton and David Hummel were elected directors for a two-year term. Hugh D. Brimacombe was elected for a one-year term.

Canada U.S. Satellite?

TORONTO (CP)—T. C. Douglas, leader, told the Empire Club Thursday that Canada must act fast to roll back foreign control of the national economy or resign itself to becoming an outright satellite of the United States. He told the luncheon meeting of some 300 business and professional men one way to regain control of the economy would be adoption of the NDP proposal for a Crown Canada Development Fund. It would assemble capital from Canadian individuals and institutions and use it to participate in future development and purchase shares in existing foreign enterprises in Canada. Noting an estimate that nearly 70 per cent of the major segments of the Canadian economy is controlled by foreign corporations, mainly American, Mr. Douglas said there are already signs that economic control is equivalent to political control.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Most of the University of B.C.'s 573 faculty members are getting salary increases which average $813 a year. University President John B. Macdonald disclosed this Thursday at a meeting with faculty representatives.

Dr. John Norris, president of the faculty association, said after the meeting that "the new salary scale doesn't entirely solve several of the things we'd asked for but it does give a merit increase to a great many staff members." Forty-four faculty members won't get increases.

Calgary Mayor

Canadian Prairies
Continue to Boom

The Canadian Prairies have come a long way since George MacEwan. Simpson said the area had no future except in fur, Calgary Mayor Grant MacEwan told a meeting of the Victoria Canadian Club yesterday.

Simpson, who in the middle of the last century kept England informed on Canada's potential, said "seven-eighths of British North America is doomed to eternal sterility."

"And that was only 167 years ago," said Mayor MacEwan.

NOT ENOUGH WHEAT

He said that 88 years ago a buyer wanted to purchase 5,000 bushels of Western wheat, but there wasn't enough to fill the order.

"Last year 700,000,000 bushels of wheat were produced on the Canadian Prairies," said Mayor MacEwan.

"And that's only the beginning of Prairie prosperity. There are 12,000 producing oil wells in Alberta alone, and the McMurray tar sands are said to contain six or seven billion barrels of oil—more than has been discovered elsewhere in the world to date."

He said potash has recently been discovered in large quantities in Saskatchewan.

AMPLE SUPPLY

"In Saskatchewan there is enough potash to satisfy world needs for the next 2,000 years," Mayor MacEwan said.

He said the Prairies are also developing hydro-electric power and have important mining and pulp and paper industries.

Murder
Story
'Made Up'

MONTREAL (UPI)—Francis Thompson completed three days of testimony at the Coffin inquiry and flatly denied he knew anything about the murder of three American hunters in the Gaspé region 11 years ago.

Thompson, a 38-year-old Mohawk Indian, was a key witness at the hearing set up by the Quebec government in January to probe into the trial and execution of Wilbert Coffin in 1956.

The hearing was sparked by a controversial book which charged, among other things, that Thompson had confessed to the murders to Miami, Fla., police in 1958. Thompson later retracted the confessions.

He told the inquiry he had made up the story in order to escape a break-and-entry charge in Miami in hope he would be deported to Canada.

Rift Denied

MONTREAL (UPI)—Canadian Labor Congress president Claude Jodoin Thursday brushed off as "nonsense" suggestions of an imminent split between the central labor body and the New Democratic Party.

At the same time, however, he suggested the NDP—and deputy party leader Douglas Fisher in particular—stick to politics and not "interfere" in CLC affairs.

Jodoin made both points at a news conference when ques-

De Gaulle Not So Sure
U.S. Could Save France

PARIS (UPI)—President de Gaulle said last night it is not certain the United States could save France from invasion and destruction by the Soviets if the French have no independent nuclear striking force.

Without this force, he declared in a nationwide radio-television broadcast, France would be reduced to relying on protection of a foreign power, with no certainty it would save her.

"No. We are worth more than that," he said.

It was de Gaulle's first broadcast to the nation since New Year's Eve and his first speech in France since Jan. 31.

It was devoted chiefly to a strong defence of his government's seven-month-old economic program, the French nuclear force and French aid to developing countries.

Rotterdam's Lijnden shopping mall, with historic City Hall in background. Rotterdam is a bustling, modern city. Its harbor is the largest in the world. Make a point of lunching or dining at the top of the Euromast. The view is unforgettable.

Greece is a country of contrasts. Frequently, its ancient culture rubs shoulders with the most modern manifestations of contemporary living. Athens is one of the smartest and gayest capitals in Europe. KLM has several tours that take you there.

Cairo has many wonders. It also has charming French restaurants and bistros, fascinating bazaars, luxurious hotels, and museums that house the treasures of the Pharaohs. The Pyramids are within easy driving distance of the city.

First, let KLM show you Holland. Then the sparkling beauty of the Mediterranean.

Amsterdam is the ideal gateway to Europe. It is also a fascinating city that combines the ageless tranquility of a Vermeer painting with the charm and sophistication of Europe's most cosmopolitan capitals. If you're planning a vacation to the countries of the Mediterranean, the Adriatic or the Aegean—or to anywhere in Europe—make a point of stopping over in Amsterdam for a day or two. You'll be charmed by the friendliness of the Dutch people. You'll find, too, that they have a natural flair for hospitality.

Amsterdam—Gateway to Europe

Amsterdam is the hub of KLM's air network. More than 40 European cities are connected by frequent KLM services from Amsterdam. KLM flies DC-8 jets, jet-powered Electra II's and Viscounts on its routes in Europe. KLM's total route network is 144,000 unimpeded miles—the second largest international air network in the world.

1. Amsterdam is fun to visit. There are museums, concerts, nightclubs. And it's tremendous for shopping. You can hunt for such Dutch bargains as pewter, silver, copper, brass. Dutch fashions and fabrics are always good buys. So are Dutch liqueurs, cheese, and chocolates. Diamonds are not expensive in Amsterdam. Dutch artisans have cut and polished diamonds for centuries. Their work is famous. Unset diamonds are especially worth buying because they are less expensive in Holland.
2. Amsterdam has 200 miles of canals—more than Venice—crossed by over 600 bridges. It also has 30 restaurants that serve Danish, French, Chinese, Indonesian, Swiss, Hungarian, Italian, and Spanish food. Brightly painted street organs parade Amsterdam streets, grinding out their thumping melodies. About 20 of them play to the enchantment of Amsterdamers and visitors alike.
3. You can take a convenient KLM bus from Amsterdam International Airport into Amsterdam, to The Hague, or Rotterdam. Most airports offer bus service to one city only. Amsterdam Airport goes two cities better. From the airport, you can reach Rotterdam in 60 minutes. Amsterdam in 25 minutes. The Hague in 30 minutes—all by convenient KLM bus.
4. "Pearls of the Mediterranean—including the Holy Land" is a concise, factual KLM booklet outlining details of 7 suggested tour plans through the countries of the Mediterranean, the Middle East, the Holy Land, the Greek Isles and the Aegean Sea, and North Africa. These tours vary in length from 15 to 32 days and provide for optional extensions to Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey, and Iran (Persia). You'll find complete details of hotels, reservations, connections and air fares, in this colourful KLM booklet. Check coupon today for your free copy.
5. "Yugoslavia, Greece and Europe—Itineraries and Tours, 1964" is another KLM brochure that lists day-by-day itineraries of various KLM tours that range in length from 3 to 30 days. KLM offers you a wide choice: a 30-day air-steam-motorcoach-and-rail tour through Holland, Yugoslavia, Greece, the Greek Isles, and Italy. Or an 8-day tour confined exclusively to Yugoslavia. Or a 3-day tour of Belgrade and vicinity. Or a 21-day air-motorcoach-and-rail tour through Yugoslavia, Italy, France and Holland. The choice is yours! You will find that this new KLM brochure contains a wealth of information on fares, connections, hotels, reservations, etc. To get your copy, complete and mail coupon at right.

6. "The World is Your Vacationland". This is the name of KLM's gay and care-free travelogue of Spring and Summer vacation opportunities for 1964. Not only does "The World is Your Vacationland" contain attractively-priced European tours and travel plans... it is also filled to overflowing with helpful travel suggestions... useful information on how to make your travel dollar stretch further... specific facts on fares, etc. "The World is Your Vacationland" is a new travel booklet.

A KLM DC-8 jetliner gets a No. 1 inspection every 15 hours of operation. 166 points are thoroughly checked by KLM maintenance crews and double-checked by a government-licensed inspector.

7. KLM believes in double-checking everything. Before every flight a DC-8 jet gets two "walk-around" inspections, one by KLM maintenance crew, one by the flight engineer. He walks around the entire plane to double-check about 60 key points. Including such details as hydraulic fluid, engine intake ducts, tire treads, brake linings, toilets, lights and power for the galley.
8. Before a KLM DC-8 jet takes off, the flight engineer checks 360 points: 123 outside, 117 in the cockpit, 69 in the cabin. After taking his place behind the pilot, he checks 60 more items before the engines are turned on. After every 3000 hours in the air, a DC-8 jet is completely stripped. Even the seats come out. They go to the carpenters and upholsterers, the precision instruments to the electrical and radio workshop, and the engines to the testing tunnel.
9. KLM is the only European airline entrusted with NATO jet overhauls. KLM maintenance crews began servicing NATO jets years before commercial jetliners went into trans-Atlantic service. KLM tests and overhauls 32,000 instruments a year. Not all belong to KLM. Five other airlines and NATO entrust work to KLM.

KLM IN CANADA

- Over the same routes, all air fares are the same for all airlines. They are standardized by international agreement. And frequently the planes are the same. Yet there is still something very special about KLM—outstanding service, both in the air and on the ground, that has been a tradition with KLM for more than 40 years. So insistent, in fact, are KLM about the quality of their service that four KLM superintendents and eight chief pursers are continuously roaming KLM's international air routes, checking to be sure that KLM's almost impossibly high standards of service are maintained at all times and in all corners of the world.
- KLM provides several jet services a week from Montreal to Europe. In mid-summer, there will be no less than six flights a week to Amsterdam and back. However, depending on your destination, you may find the greater frequency of flights out of New York—several flights daily—offers you a wider choice of connections at Amsterdam. Flying to Europe via New York also enables you to break your journey and see the New York World's Fair—and at little or no additional air fare. Check both of these points with your Travel Agent or your nearest KLM office.
- KLM Passenger Meeting Service at Montreal and New York. When arriving in Montreal or New York to connect with your KLM flight to Europe, be sure to take advantage of KLM's special Passenger Meeting Service. A uniformed staff member will not only meet you and conduct you to the KLM departure point, he will also arrange for all your baggage transfers. Ask for KLM's Passenger Meeting Service when confirming your reservation.
- KLM maintains 10 offices across Canada. KLM also has ticket offices in Quebec City, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Edmonton, and Vancouver. KLM employs over a hundred-and-fifty highly-trained personnel in Canada—including technical, supervisory, and operational staff at Dorval Airport, and a team of experienced Cargo Sales Engineers operating out of Montreal and Toronto.
- KLM likes to make things easy for everyone! Whether you're working out the final details for that long-promised European vacation, starting on an overseas business trip, or are a "new Canadian" taking your family on a visit to the old country, KLM has found a number of ways to make things easier for you. For instance, there's KLM's convenient Fly-Now-Pay-Later Plan that permits you to fly now at a low down-payment and offers you many months to pay the balance. In addition to covering your roundtrip ticket, it can also be used for all-inclusive tours and hotels. Only 10% down.
- Rely on your Travel Agent—he is an expert. Your Travel Agent will help you with all your travel arrangements. His experience enables him to tell you where and how you can make the very most of your time and money. He can also tell you about the advantages of flying KLM. Farris Trial

Cross-Examination Confuses Witness

TORONTO (CP)—A former official of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company testified Thursday to receiving suggestions in 1955 and 1956 that it would cost the company money to get a distribution franchise in Orillia, Ont., but his evidence bogged down under cross-examination.

J. Chester Gray of Tucson, Ariz., NONG vice-president and general manager between 1954 and 1957, at first said he reported these suggestions to NONG President Ralph K. Farris, on trial before a Supreme Court jury on two perjury charges.

Later, he admitted to defence counsel Joseph Sedgwick that he could not recall actually reporting them but thought he would have done so because it was his custom to report frequently to the president while he was scouting for municipal franchises in the 1955-56 period.

Gray's evidence attributed quotations to Wilbur Cramp, who was mayor of Orillia in 1955-56-57 and who has testified to receiving 150 shares of NONG stock several months after the franchise went through there in 1956, and Archibald Carter, now a Simcoe County court judge who in 1957 received 50 shares.

RECEIVED CALL
The former NONG vice-president said that when he was in Toronto in June, 1956, a man identifying himself as Mr. Carter—whom he had previously met—called him from Orillia and told him it "might cost something" to get the Orillia franchise.

He said that in February, 1956, Cramp was present when the witness bought a bottle of whisky for William Moore, an Orillia lawyer, and Cramp had said it would "cost more than a bottle of Crown Royal" to get the Orillia franchise.

DENIED STATEMENTS
Cramp and Carter both have denied making the statements attributed to them by Gray. They were asked about Gray's evidence when they appeared as witnesses last week, though the evidence itself was introduced only Thursday.

Red Wings Go One Up On Delvecchio's Marker

DETROIT (CP) — A goal by captain Alex Delvecchio with only 17 seconds remaining in regulation time gave Detroit Red Wings a 4-3 Stanley Cup win over Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night and boosted them one game ahead after three games of the series.

Less than one minute earlier, Ken McCreary had tied it for the Leafs and seemed to set the stage for overtime.

But Delvecchio, gangling around goalie Johnny Bower with his linemate Gordie Howe, grabbed a loose puck and jammed a short one home to send a Detroit Olympia crowd of 15,885 wild.

CHECKING LESSON
The Red Wings gave the Leafs a skating and checking lesson for two periods and dominated play for the best part of the game, building up a 3-1 lead by the end of the second period.

The Leafs staged one of their famous last-period drives on goals by Dave Keon and McCreary, then seemed to let up in the last minute and allow the Wings to again take command.

PLAYS IN PUCK
Bower had just made a save on Howe and was trying to regain his position when Delvecchio slipped in his third goal of the playoff series and put the Wings ahead two games to one.

The Wings raced into action early with the same first two goals in Toronto.

They scored three goals in the first period, two by right winger Floyd Smith and one by right winger Bruce MacGregor.

LONG SCREEN
In the second period Andy Bathgate scored on a long screened shot but the play still belonged to the Wings who seemed to find reserves of energy that Leafs were unable to tap.

Toronto finally seemed to start playing in the third period and Keon's goal came while the Leafs were swarming around Terry Sawchuk in the Detroit net.

FINALLY SUCCEEDED
McCreary, who had been trying to tip in all night, finally succeeded at 18:47 when Tim Horton shot from the centre of the blue line. Sawchuk did not appear to see the puck which rebounded to McCreary about 10 feet in front.

For the third time in the final series, the course of the game was decided in the final minute of regulation time.

In the first game in Toronto last Saturday, Bob Pulford won for the Leafs at 19:58 and in Wednesday's second game Gerry Egan tied it for Toronto at 20:17 to send it into overtime.

Detroit won Tuesday's game 4-3 in the overtime period.

Howe had his best game of the series and the line of Norm Ullman, Larry Jeffrey and Smith kept control of the puck for most of the time it was on the ice.

Shots on goal were even at 34 but many of the Toronto attempts were dumped in from the centre ice area or fired from the blue line.

Ullman assisted on Smith's second goal to give him 16 play-off points, just five short of the record 21 established by Stan Mikita of Chicago in the 1962 series against Montreal and Chicago.

Referee John Ashley called only nine minor penalties, five against the Wings.

Both goalies played well, and most of the goals came on scrambles in front of the nets or on screened shots.

Sawchuk robbed George Armstrong twice, Gerry Ehman twice and McCreary once. Bower made out-lets saves on Ullman, Howe and MacGregor.

Detroit started fast as Smith scored at 2:48 when a bouncing puck alighted out of a host of players and left him the open side of the net to shoot at.

Only 38 seconds later MacGregor dived on his face to slap the puck into the corner after Bower failed to control it on a point-drive by Doug Barkley, a second-year defenseman who played his best game of the playoffs.

Ullman lifted Detroit's third-goal-bound puck toward Bower and Smith cruising in front was credited with a tip-in.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach of Toronto, who used new line combinations and changed his players constantly during the first two periods, change this style of play in the second period, and the Leafs used the dump-and-chase system, shooting the puck into the corners and skating in for the rebounds.

Just after Ed Joly of Detroit returned from a penalty, Bathgate broke the ice for Toronto with a screened blueside drive on a power-play setup. Sawchuk had no chance.

WE CAN WIN
"Sure, the series can go seven and I think we can win that Cup."

Alex Delvecchio who sank the clincher with 17 seconds left on the clock, was busy answering a barrage of questions.

"I couldn't help but sink that one."

Gordie (Howe) and Andre (Pronovost) worked it over to me and Bower was on the other side of the cage. It was a big goal, especially as I was on the ice when McCreary tied it up. I just had to get it back."

IT'S TIRED
Floyd Smith said: "I'm tired. You sure work with this club and it's all worth it. Now let's end it in five."

Terry Sawchuk: "They're all tough, both the games and the shots, but playoff hockey goes weird. Here we are three up and what happens? We have to battle to win. Let's try to end it in five."

SPEAKS FOR TEAM
Toronto coach Punch Imlach left the dressing room minutes after his team came in and Harold Ballard, the Leafs' executive vice-president, became the spokesman.

"We were down the same in the Montreal series and came back. Any team that comes back from 3-0 and tie must have something. I know we got the horses."

Carl Brewer, playing his first game of the final series, said: "Ribs didn't bother me and we'll come back."

With Player Fines
Udvari fills coffers for National League

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Frank Udvari is the worst referee in the National Hockey League, fumed Toronto Coach Punch Imlach. Punch's remarks were made last Saturday after the first period of the Detroit-Toronto Stanley Cup game with the Red Wings ahead 2-1.

A few reporters were around to record the words, but where was Punch after the game, which Maple Leafs won 3-2 on a pair of third-period goals? He had vanished from the Leaf dressing-room before reporters could get to him.

And no wonder. It certainly would have been a twist to hear a winning coach complain about the officiating while his athletes were whooping it up.

ED ABEL FINED
Udvari, a 39-year-old insurance man from Kitchener, Ont., who has been officiating in the big leagues for 13 years, has had his share of barbs directed at him. Two weeks ago, Coach Sid Abel of the Wings said, among other things, that Udvari was "gutless" after he awarded Chicago Black Hawks a disputed goal in the Stanley Cup semi-final.

Abel was hit for a $500 fine by League President Clarence Campbell.

This prompted Vern DeGeer of the Montreal Gazette to do a little researching. It showed that charges against this soft-spoken man by team officials and players have resulted in fines totalling $3,200 plus since 1961.

This total, said DeGeer, doesn't count the $25 and $50 fines.

DeGeer recalled the spring of 1961, and another Stanley Cup playoff between Detroit and Chicago. The Wings won the fourth game of the best-of-seven series 2-1 and after the game Chicago Manager Tommy Ivan charged that the winning goal was scored with two men in the Hawk goal-mouth and that Udvari "didn't have the guts to call it."

TROUBLE FOLLOWS HIM
Campbell rapped Ivan with a $300 fine and followed it with a $200 fine against then Chicago Coach Rudy Pilous who added a few choice remarks.

Earlier that season, Jack Adams of Detroit was tagged for $300 after accusing Udvari of "trying to run Howe Young (a Red Wing chatter) out of the league."

And Imlach gave up $200 after a Toronto-Montreal game when he suggested that the "three stars" of the evening were Udvari and his two linemen.

WON'T QUIT
Smiling Sid Lauds Club

DETROIT (CP) — "I'm finding out I've got a real comeback club," said a smiling Sid Abel, general manager-coach, in the steamy Detroit Red Wing dressing room as his club celebrated its victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"When you win one in overtime and then another in the last minute, you know you have a team that just doesn't believe in quitting . . . Oh yes, I was overjoyed when we were ahead 3-0 but after the middle of the second game we got tired and they came on."

WE CAN WIN

Udvari fills coffers for National League

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Frank Udvari is the worst referee in the National Hockey League, fumed Toronto Coach Punch Imlach. Punch's remarks were made last Saturday after the first period of the Detroit-Toronto Stanley Cup game with the Red Wings ahead 2-1.

A few reporters were around to record the words, but where was Punch after the game, which Maple Leafs won 3-2 on a pair of third-period goals? He had vanished from the Leaf dressing-room before reporters could get to him.

And no wonder. It certainly would have been a twist to hear a winning coach complain about the officiating while his athletes were whooping it up.

ED ABEL FINED
Udvari, a 39-year-old insurance man from Kitchener, Ont., who has been officiating in the big leagues for 13 years, has had his share of barbs directed at him. Two weeks ago, Coach Sid Abel of the Wings said, among other things, that Udvari was "gutless" after he awarded Chicago Black Hawks a disputed goal in the Stanley Cup semi-final.

Abel was hit for a $500 fine by League President Clarence Campbell.

This prompted Vern DeGeer of the Montreal Gazette to do a little researching. It showed that charges against this soft-spoken man by team officials and players have resulted in fines totalling $3,200 plus since 1961.

This total, said DeGeer, doesn't count the $25 and $50 fines.

DeGeer recalled the spring of 1961, and another Stanley Cup playoff between Detroit and Chicago. The Wings won the fourth game of the best-of-seven series 2-1 and after the game Chicago Manager Tommy Ivan charged that the winning goal was scored with two men in the Hawk goal-mouth and that Udvari "didn't have the guts to call it."

TROUBLE FOLLOWS HIM
Campbell rapped Ivan with a $300 fine and followed it with a $200 fine against then Chicago Coach Rudy Pilous who added a few choice remarks.

Earlier that season, Jack Adams of Detroit was tagged for $300 after accusing Udvari of "trying to run Howe Young (a Red Wing chatter) out of the league."

And Imlach gave up $200 after a Toronto-Montreal game when he suggested that the "three stars" of the evening were Udvari and his two linemen.

Tim Horton: "It's tough to lose like that but that's hockey. You can never tell."

Red Kelly: "We made our big effort to come back but they just had to get one more."

Neither team reported injuries outside a few bruises.

Ullman lifted Detroit's third-goal-bound puck toward Bower and Smith cruising in front was credited with a tip-in.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach of Toronto, who used new line combinations and changed his players constantly during the first two periods, change this style of play in the second period, and the Leafs used the dump-and-chase system, shooting the puck into the corners and skating in for the rebounds.

Just after Ed Joly of Detroit returned from a penalty, Bathgate broke the ice for Toronto with a screened blueside drive on a power-play setup. Sawchuk had no chance.

Freedom Bid Short-Lived, Results in Extra Charge

A short-lived bid for freedom ended when a man who ran from the city police station was caught and charged with escaping legal custody. It was disclosed in city magistrate's court yesterday.

James M. Dunbar, HMCS Nadan, was arrested early yesterday and charged with attempted theft of a $30,000 trailer truck from the CPR freight shed on Store Street.

A city police constable was checking a call to the shed when he heard Dunbar start the truck motor. Dunbar told him he worked for Yarrows, who, he said, owned the truck.

It was the property of Capital Freightways Ltd.

Dunbar was taken to the charge office, asked to use a washroom, then made a break when in the alley between the police office and the Naval Shore Patrol office, where the washroom was.

He was apprehended hiding under a car after a three-block chase in which a warning shot was fired.

He pleaded guilty to both charges, and was remanded to April 24 for pre-sentence report.

Magistrate William Outler yesterday disregarded breathalyzer test evidence in finding a man guilty of impaired driving.

Sigvald Sekkeno, 1564 North Dairy, was fined $300 and had his driver's licence suspended.

He was arrested after he collided with another car while driving on Hillside March 7.

Defence counsel W. B. Monteith had called the breathalyzer a mechanical monster, and an "expert" witness was called in to explain the effect of a 17 per cent blood alcohol reading on the body. That was the reading recorded in the case of Sekkeno.

Magistrate Outler ruled that since the tester learned the operation of the machine in a two-week course, he would not be qualified to know the physiological effect of that amount of alcohol on the human body.

Clifford LeBlanc, 18, 1315 Stanley, was yesterday sentenced in city court to 14 months definite and eight months indeterminate at a young offenders' unit.

LeBlanc was the third youth sentenced in connection with the knife-point robbery of a man on Clover Point April 2. He pleaded guilty to robbery with violence.

Last week George Mazera and Ronald Moore were sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

A man with a long history of fraud and false pretence charges was remanded to Monday for a pre-sentence report on charges involving worthless cheques. He pleaded guilty to two charges.

Keith M. McNamara, no fixed address, was arrested after passing two cheques Feb. 27 and Feb. 28, for a total of $57.58.

Four youths charged with robbery with violence and illegal detention were remanded in Saanich court to April 23 to set a date for preliminary hearing.

Eugene Hunt, 18, 348 Michigan; Russell Teichert, 18, of 945 Elery, and Lloyd DeWolf, 1613 Balmoral, all elected trial by magistrate and pleaded not guilty, but Charles Ash, 18, of 106 Parklands, elected trial by a judge without a jury.

Since the four have been charged jointly, this means all will face preliminary hearing together, and, if committed, will be tried by a judge.

Foreign Doctors Fill B.C. Need

VANCOUVER (CP) — Graduate doctors from certain foreign medical schools have been given permission to practise in sections of British Columbia without first writing Canadian Medical Council examinations.

In announcing the move Thursday, the B.C. College of Physicians and Surgeons said it was an emergency measure to provide more physicians for areas without sufficient doctors.

The measure applied particularly to northern and central B.C., said Dr. Lynn Gumm, registrar of the college. It was especially difficult to get doctors for areas with large Indian populations and a high ratio of social assistance cases. Emergency permits will be given graduates doctors from Britain, the United States, Australia and New Zealand. Similar permits will be issued to a few elderly Canadian doctors who have never written the examinations, said Dr. Gumm.

It would be nice to say that White Hart needs no introduction but that wouldn't be the truth. Even though we at Lemon Hart have been making fine rums for generations, White Hart is rather unique. It took seven long years to develop the process; it has been matured to the exquisite colour of a fine white wine, retaining only the slightest haunting flavour of the most heavenly Demerara rum.

Now that you have been introduced, would you try White Hart. Experiment with it. Enjoy it in different ways... in soda, in tonic, as a Daiquiri. Imported with the greatest of pleasure, it's available now.

TCA reports on 1963

For the tenth time since 1950, Canada's national airline records a substantial profit.

TCA achieved a surplus of $527,875 during 1963 after paying 4.82% average rate of interest on the borrowed capital invested in the enterprise. This year of profit followed three previous years of heavy expenses resulting from the introduction of jet aircraft on major routes.

Four simple figures illustrate the scope of TCA's growth during 1963. Total passenger volume grew by 9%...air freight by 22%...air express increased 7%...air mail advanced 8%.

The productivity of the airline's all-turbine fleet rose by 18 percent. As a result, operating expenses per available ton mile dropped to a point some 30% below the level of a decade ago. (A "ton mile" represents one ton of capacity flown one mile.)

Achieving better service

The quality of TCA services was improved, as well. Throughout the 37,000 miles of TCA routes, new standards were set for operating regularity. "On time" performance compared very favourably with general industry standards.

Four additional DC-8 aircraft were delivered during the year, to meet the needs of almost 4,000,000 passengers and the increased freight loads carried by TCA during 1963.

By the end of the year, aircraft in line service totalled 13 DC-8's, 22 Vanguards and 40 Viscounts. Payments for new aircraft were made by the airline from its own resources and no outside borrowing was needed.

New reservations service

1963 also saw "ReserVac" create another first for Canada. ReserVac is an electronic reservation control system, based on a computer in Toronto. Linked to all TCA offices, it confirms reservations, almost instantaneously, and with remarkable accuracy.

Air cargo sets new records

In 1963 TCA became the first airline in the world to introduce jet freighter aircraft into service across the Atlantic — and later, across Canada. This introduction coincided with the 20th Anniversary of TCA's first scheduled trans-Atlantic flight in 1943. The addition of new jets to the fleet, plus lower cargo rates, helped set new records for air cargo movements on all TCA routes.

Air mail also showed a substantial increase — as Canadians continued to enjoy the highest standard of air mail service in the world — at the lowest cost.

Aircraft for the future

TCA constantly plans ahead, to meet the flying needs of tomorrow. Six new twin-jet DC-9 aircraft are on order, with deliveries to commence in 1966 — when TCA's continuing expansion will require their services. The new DC-9 was selected after an intensive technical evaluation, as the best aircraft for TCA's particular short-to-medium range requirements.

Looking toward tomorrow

In 1964, the Company looks forward with confidence to another year of expanding service and growing economic strength. As a major public utility, the Company is, above all, keenly aware of its duty to provide good service on as wide a scale as is economically practical, and at the lowest possible price to its customers.

Everybody Busy

Site for May Fair Hive of Activity

Victoria Jaycees this week are spreading around 3,000 yards of soil on land north of Memorial Arena, in preparation for the horse show section of their Annual May Fair to be held May 11 to 16.

The horse show, a new fair feature this year, is predicted to be one of the Island's biggest-ever horse shows and it will feature 34 events with around 600 entries.

Work is progressing around the Memorial Arena and Curling Rink—site of the outdoor section of the pageant and fair.

RENTED SPACE

Meanwhile officials are slowly ticking off rented floor space for displays in the Arena and the Curling Rink.

"We have just a few spaces for exhibitors' booths left," said exhibition chairman Ray Farmer.

FROM ALL OVER

So far 125 exhibitors—companies, shops and organizations from all over the Victoria area—have registered, and there is booth space for some 20 or so more.

POLE-BENDING

The horse show will include a twice-nightly gymkhana display with events such as pole-bending, barrel racing, keyhole racing, a scurry race, wrangler race, revolve race and bare-back wrestling.

Final judging of the Miss Victoria Contest will take place May 16 at the Arena.

Throughout the fair, the Jaycees have arranged for the Cerebral Palsy Association and various service clubs to take handicapped children along to enjoy the rides and watch events.

Job Office Their Own

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)

Workers with jobs and without have set up their own employment office in this wilderness centre 200 miles north of Prince George. Officials of the North Peace Association for employed and unemployed laborers and skilled workmen said Thursday a total of 200 men have registered at the new office and that 30 to 40 have obtained jobs through it, bond Saturday.

City Men Concealed Three Girl Fugitives

Three 15-year-old girls, on the run from Willingdon Girls' School in Burnaby, were picked up in Vancouver by two Victoria men and brought to the Island, and all five spent the night in a cabin, Sooke magistrate's court heard.

Police said the girls got in touch with the two men in Vancouver and arranged for them to transport them to Victoria. They escaped Feb. 4 and were arrested by Victoria city police three days later.

Theft Penalized

Leonard Sawyer of Becher Bay was sentenced Tuesday in Sooke magistrate's court to two months for theft. Court was told he stole $18 from his employer.

Antique treasures are being found as wreckers demolish old Chinese buildings on Government to make room for new Centennial Square structures. Here George Henderson holds old gas heater.—(Ryan Bros.)

Dallas Road

New High Rise

A Vancouver company yesterday announced plans to build a 13-storey apartment on Dallas Road.

Ten pieces of property, a total of 97,000 square feet, are being cleared to make way for the new high-rise which will be built by Wescott Apartments Ltd. at a cost of $2,000,000.

Eight houses are now being demolished and two will be removed to give access to the site from Dallas, South Turner and Rithet.

60 FEET DEEP

A spokesman for the Vancouver firm said the building would have a 230-foot frontage on Dallas Road and would be 60 feet deep. It will contain 108 40 lux suites of one and two bedrooms. There will be an indoor swimming pool.

Wescott built the first high-rise in Victoria in 1960, the eight-storey Beacon Towers on Douglas overlooking Beacon Hill Park, at a cost of $700,000. The company recently sold the 60-suite apartment for a reported price of $750,000.

SAME COMPANY

The same company built the city's first 13-storey high-rise in 1962, the adjacent Richardson Court, a $1,000,000 97-suite block. Construction is expected to take about a year.

Archbishop Sexton

Light Touch at Synod

All was not solemn at the Anglican Synod of the diocese of B.C. yesterday.

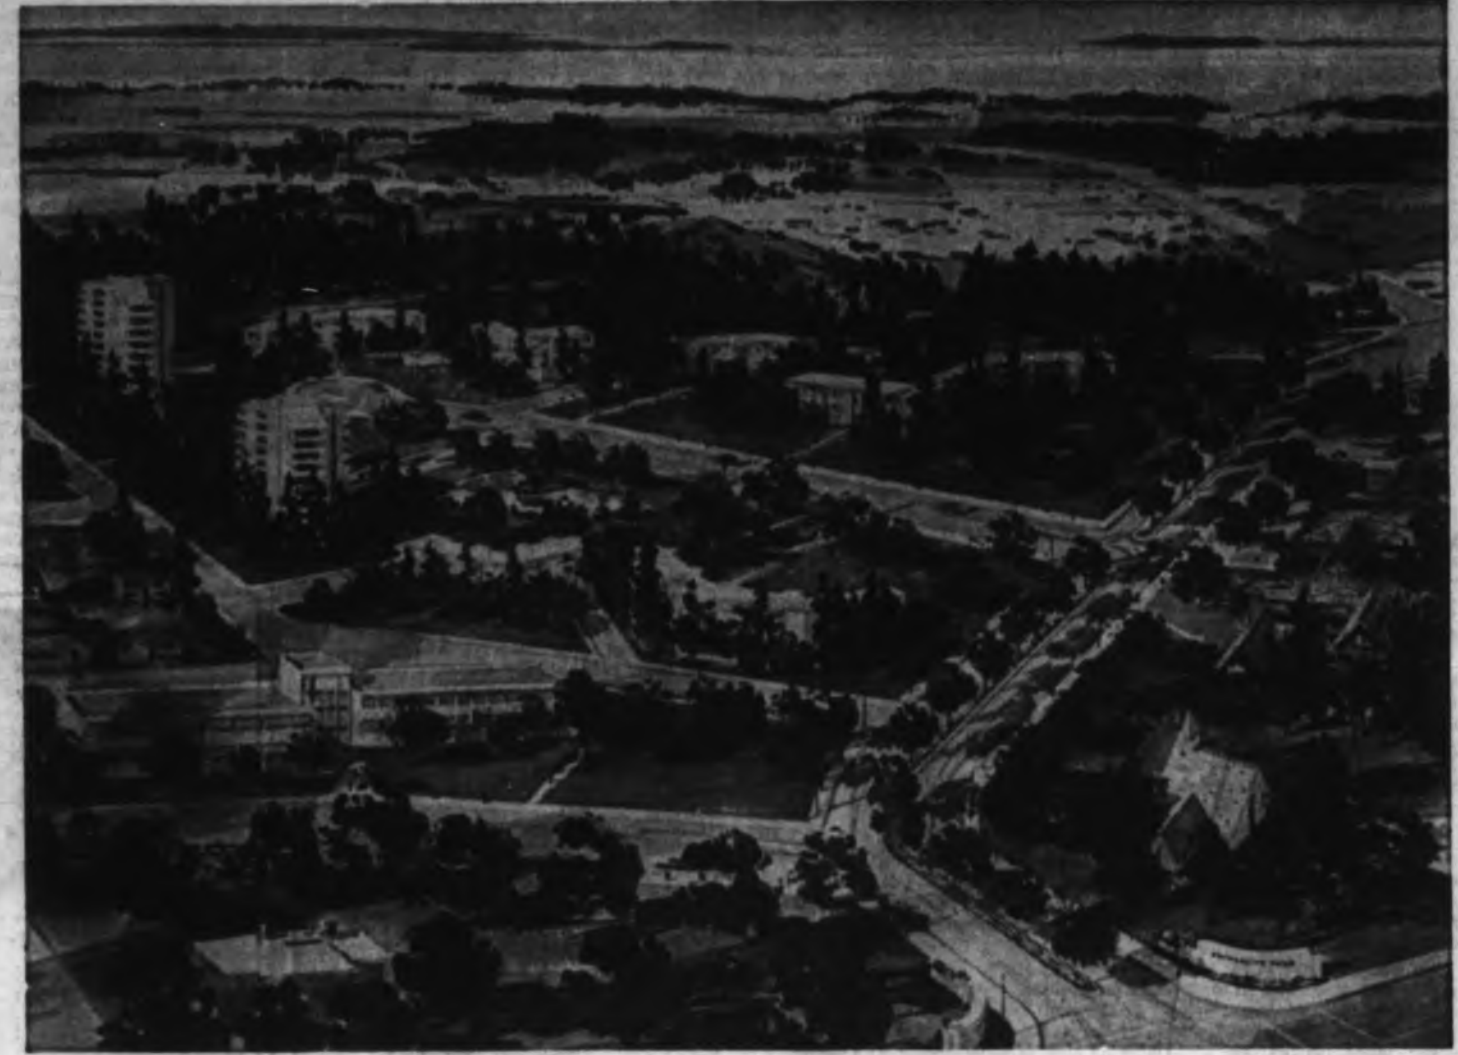

Rev. J. A. Roberts of Victoria told the synod that the only persons in B.C. barred from being teachers or trustees on school boards are lunatics and clergymen.

Archbishop Sexton said he had been in touch with the attorney general and learned a man could be a clergyman or a teacher but not both.

He said he would enquire further on the question of clergymen being trustees, adding he thought it inconsistent that the government had made a minister of religion the minister of highways.

One of the synod members said that a clergyman could be a minister in the government even if he couldn't be a school trustee. He cited the case of the Rev. Joshua Hinchliffe, who was minister of education in the Tolmie regime in the early 1930s.

Teen Drivers Defended

'It's Just Not True'

Victoria Jaycees yesterday defended the city's teen-age drivers against savage criticism of teen-age drivers in general made in a recent survey by leading U.S. safety experts.

In a news release, B.C. Automobile Association reports that the U.S. experts say teen-age drivers are "too good for their own good."

They drive differently, react differently and have a different storehouse of experience than older motorists, the survey said.

MAJOR FAULTS

The survey listed these major faults which the experts said were common to many teen-age motorists:

- Young drivers can't smell danger.
- They drive too emotionally.
- They load their cars too heavily.
- They drive too fast.
- They repeat their mistakes.
- They pick bad companions: who goad them into taking chances.
- They want to be too good too soon, not sensing that experience on the highway is the only way of learning how to be a good driver.

But yesterday, members of Victoria's Junior Chamber of Commerce rebutted the comments of the experts.

NOT HERE

"While these things may be true of certain teen-agers, they're certainly not applicable to Victoria's teen-age drivers in general," said Jaycee Terry Farmer.

"Victoria boasts many car clubs, the members of which probably look after their cars and drive them more safely than many average members of the public."

Terry Nex, who was in charge of the two recent safe-driving roadshows staged by the Jaycees said:

"The overwhelming response and interest shown in our safe-driving campaigns shows that these things are just not true of the majority of Victoria's teen-agers."

BIGGEST HAZARD

"The drunken driver—who is more often adult rather than a teen-ager—is probably the biggest and most dangerous hazard on the roads today."

"The demerits which teen-age car club members suffer within their club when they break a motoring law often hurts them more than the fine. They spend thousands of dollars rebuilding and repainting their cars too—they'd just be foolish to risk damaging them after spending so much money."

"There's a percentage of bad and dangerous drivers in every age group—let's not just blame the teen-agers."

Oak Bay Avenue

Drive-In Car Noise Pondered by City

City health and welfare committee pondered the question of how to reduce noise near a drive-in on Oak Bay Avenue.

Noise from the drive-in, in a commercial strip running through a residential area, has drawn numerous complaints from residents of the area.

City manager Dennis Young was asked yesterday to bring in a report on how the noise of traffic entering and leaving the drive-in might be reduced.

STOP ROWDYISM
He told the committee that a commissionaire has been hired by operators of the drive-in to prevent rowdiness on the lot itself.

"We wonder if limitations should be imposed on the hours they are allowed to stay open," said Mr. Young, adding that while the drive-in operators are "reasonably effective" in curbing noise they cannot do much about the starting and stopping of car motors.

University Housing Development

Plan for University Park, a housing development owned by the University of Victoria on the Lansdowne campus acreage, was shown to property owners in the area at a public meeting last night. Rentals from the more than 600 units would provide revenue of $300,000 a year for the university after buildings are paid for.

147-Week Course

Naval Apprentices Graduating Today

Today is graduation day for 21 naval technical apprentices of the Pacific Command's Fleet School at Esquimalt.

These young men, averaging 22 years of age, have completed a 147-week course and will graduate with the rank of Leading Seamen, Trade Group Three.

The class includes 16 engineering technicians and five hull technicians. They started training in January, 1961, after a 15-week basic naval training course at HMCS Cornwallis, near Digby, N.S.

Graduation ceremonies will be held during divisions on HMCS Naden parade ground at 3 p.m. today.

Victorians among the group are LS J. O. Gordon, 778 Gladstone; LS Larry Norman, 356 St. Charles and LS Gilbert Taylor, 3833 Duke.

LS David Smith of Lake Cowichan is also one of today's graduates.

Rotary Picks City Student

A University of Victoria student who graduates this year has been chosen as the Victoria Rotary Club's candidate for a Rotary International Fellowship grant.

Eric Carlson of 1671 St. Francis Wood, son of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Carlson, was selected from a list of seven applicants.

Research Award

A National Research Council scholarship for study abroad has been awarded to C. I. Gardner of Victoria. The award is one of $6 valued at $108,000.

Recreation Group Plans Centre-Selling Campaign

A vigorous campaign to acquaint Oak Bay ratepayers with the case for the proposed $1,000,000 recreation centre is planned by members of the Oak Bay Recreation Commission.

Recreation commission chairman Ernest Costain said last night that opponents of the centre and its proposed site at the intersection of Foul Bay and Cadboro Bay Roads have done a "valiant" job of making their objections known through the press.

"We are going to undertake a campaign to try to bring the other side of the picture to the voters."

APPOINTED BY COUNCIL

The recreation commission is a body appointed by Oak Bay council to supervise organized recreation in the municipality.

Mr. Costain said last night that council has said the commission as such should not take a position for or against the centre, but that commission members as individuals, like councillors as individuals, may.

SOLIDLY IN FAVOR

And, Mr. Costain said, the 12 members of the commission are solidly in favor of the proposed centre.

"We are not going to sit back and say, 'Well, it's too bad . . .'"

WRITE LETTERS

Among means the commission members plan to use in their campaign, he said, is to urge supporters of the centre to write letters to the editor as its opponents have done.

Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox said last night members of the municipal council have recently been hearing more from people opposed to the centre than people in favor of it, but this is to be expected at this stage.

BEST PLAN

The reeve said some people seem to feel mistakenly that the council favors the centre and is trying to "ram it down people's throats."

The council, he said, is merely putting forth what it considers the best plan for a centre in order that voters may decide whether they want one or not. "The matter is in the lap of the voters now."

VOTE APRIL 25

The ratepayers' referendum on the centre is to be Saturday, April 25. A 50-per-cent vote in favor will be required to approve going ahead on the centre.

Enough People Here For Prairie Election

Calgary mayor Grant MacEwan took a swipe at Saskatchewan's weather yesterday, to the credit of Victoria.

He said so many people come to Victoria from Saskatchewan for the warm winter weather, that they should hold an advance poll here for their coming provincial election.

Optional Closing Day For Barbers in Bylaw

City barbers will not have to abide by a Wednesday closing rule under terms of a draft bylaw brought in yesterday by city solicitor T. P. O'Grady.

The city's legislative committee recommended that council adopt the bylaw which will allow individual barbers to choose what day of the week they wish to close their shops.

Each barber would then have to inform city hall in writing of his choice and maintain the optional closing day for a period of one year.

Servants' Pension Increase Sought

A Victoria man has written to Prime Minister Pearson asking for an increase in pensions for retired civil servants.

Fred Whitehouse, secretary-treasurer of the Federal Superannuates National Association, said last night that his two-page brief asks the government to give consideration to an increase in pensions for retired civil servants.

The cost of living and the expanding economy has made it necessary to increase the wages of everybody—including Members of Parliament, he said last night.

But, he said, the superannuates are "the forgotten people."

Ferroequinologists Seek Sidney Story

B.C. Railway Historical Association is compiling a history of the Victoria-Sidney railroad, which ran between 1894 and 1919.

The ferroequinologists—that's the official term for railroad historians—are trying to piece together a detailed account of its development, and want photographs and information on locomotives and rolling stock.

"Transportation has played a very important part in the growth of this area," says association secretary H. A. Fraser.

Anyone who can help the association can contact him via P.O. Box 114, Victoria.

Television to Aid Reunion

Organizers of the mass reunion of ex-Victoria High School students and staff anticipate such a big turnout on May 1, they have arranged for closed-circuit television cameras to be installed in the Grant Street school.

This, they hope, will enable all of the 1,500 former students, staff and officials expected to take part, to watch formalities to be held in the school auditorium. The auditorium will hold only half the anticipated number.

Anyone who has ever attended the high school is invited, except for present students.

There to reminisce about school history will be former principals Harry L. Smith and Harry Dee, now district supervisor of secondary curriculums.

With them will be Frank Levins, assistant superintendent with the education department. Mrs. A. B. Thompson, chairman of district board of trustees, and John Gough, district superintendent, all ex-students.

In the school's various classrooms, there will be photographic displays depicting the academic and sporting development of the school since its early days.

There will be an introduction of a cross section of former teachers of long service and a panel of former student-athletes, including Porky Andrews, Chuck and Art Chapman, Doug Peden and his brother Torchy, and Lynn and Muzz Patrick, who now live in eastern Canada.

Former teacher and manager of the Blue Ribbons basketball team, Ernie Cook will also join in the hour-long session, which will also include a general sing-song. There will be refreshments and more reminiscences.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Shepard, 210 Homer Road, announce the engagement of their daughter Jacquelyn Rose, to Mr. Ronald Dennis Parker, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Parker, 615 Fernhill Road. The wedding will take place Saturday, May 9, at 7:30 p.m. in Garden City United Church with Rev. H. R. C. Whitmore officiating. —(Meyers Studio)

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Yole, 58 Cadillac Avenue, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Correen Edna to Mr. Brian Trevor Williams, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Williams, 551 Whiteside Avenue. The marriage will take place in St. Mark's Anglican Church Friday, May 22, at 7:30 p.m., with Rev. Canon Robert Willis officiating. —(Jus-Rite)

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter Sarah is 27 years old. She has a good job as secretary to an executive in a shoe factory. For the past four years she has been going with a fellow who works there as a foreman. I will call him Ralph although that is not his name. In fact he doesn't work at the factory either. I just put that in to disguise him in case this letter shows up in the paper.

Ralph lives in a rooming house. He comes here for dinner three nights a week and uses our bathtub. He says it is almost impossible to get into the bathroom at the rooming house. When he does get in, there is no hot water.

We do not mind except he never cleans the tub after he uses it. Once my wife placed a can of scouring powder right in the middle of the tub, but he didn't take the hint.

We wouldn't care if we were sure Ralph was going to marry our Sarah but he hasn't proposed to her even though he never takes out anyone else. What do you think? — WEDDING BELLS WANTED.

Dear Bells: I'm afraid the only ring Sarah will ever see is the one Ralph leaves around the tub.

A fellow doesn't go steady with a girl four years and not declare his honorable intentions—if he has any. Sarah should have a frank talk with Ralph regarding the future. If he isn't interested in marriage she should—if you will excuse the expression—pull the plug on him.

Dear Ann Landers: We are ready to admit we are failures. Strange, too, because we were going to be perfect parents. It should have been easy. Our own wants are few and we were willing to devote ourselves totally to our children.

We are an average family, with an average income. We live in an average home and drive an average car. We taught our children to swim, fish, hunt, bowl, golf, skate, and dance. We've taken them picnicking, camping, on sight-seeing trips and given them everything they need. Yet, ever since they learned to talk all we have heard is "But the neighbor kids have nicer bikes, better guns, more spending money..."

Now it's, "But all the other kids can go steady. I'm always the first one to leave a party. Everyone has more fun than I do..."

You might say they are just spoiled, but how did they get that way? We take them to church regularly, insist on week nights for study, and set their allowances at a reasonable minimum. They can have the car occasionally but we always know where they are, and with whom. Yet they seem discontented, misunderstood and dissatisfied with their parents? Why?—THE FAILURES.

Dear Friends: I refuse to call you failures because I don't be-

"Spotsmanship" Award Comes to New Method!

MRS. RUTH M. FOSTER

Mrs. Ruth M. Foster of Nelson's New Method of Victoria, was recently honored for her professional drycleaning skill. She accepted the challenge of DRYCLEANING WORLD magazine and successfully removed a difficult Mystery Spot on a swatch of material affixed to the magazine's cover. DRYCLEANING WORLD lauded its 32,000 readers to clean the spot without damaging the material, and Mrs. Foster of New Method was one of the drycleaners who did a perfect job. The "Spotsmanship Award" is now prominently displayed at New Method, and reads, "To Mrs. Ruth M. Foster, New Method, in recognition of professional drycleaning skill as demonstrated in the successful removal of problem spots."

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Nikkels Spend Honeymoon in Mexico

An exquisite gown of organza and lace was worn by June Jeanette Knight when she exchanged vows with William Bernard Nikkels in St. Mary's Anglican Church. A lace panel in the softy full organza skirt complemented a lace bodice and tiny point sleeves. Seed pearls and sequins edged the portrait neckline. The bouffant veil was held by a cluster of pearl orange blossoms. Yellow roses topped the lace-covered Bible she carried. The cover was "borrowed" from the bridesmatron, Mrs. Peter Bishop.

Yellow and white spring flowers decorated the church for ceremony at which Canon Hywel Jones officiated. Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Knight, 510 Broadway Street, and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Nikkels, 1689 Marwood Avenue. Mr. Knight gave his daughter in marriage.

Bell-skirted organza gowns in maize shade and tiny flower and net headpieces in yellow were choice of matron of honor, Mrs. Hugh Jane; bridesmatron, Mrs. Bishop; and bridesmaid, Miss Trudy Nikkels. The white carnations in their bouquets were tinted turquoise and edged with white ribbons.

Best man was Charles Nikkels and ushering guests were Donald McKinney and Gerry Keeler, Capt. H. D. Cartwright, Vancouver, proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Club Tango. The wedding cake was topped with yellow roses and tables were decorated with white and yellow flowers.

Leaving on a honeymoon motoring trip to Mexico, the bride wore an English tweed suit in gold tones, silk blouse in white, gold and rose; red shoes and purse and floral hat in yellow and brown. Newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

An Absolute Stranger Discusses Her Bras

By EILEEN LEABOYD

Strange is the life of a female reporter.

This blue-eyed blonde came into our office yesterday.

I said to her, "What kind of undergarments are you wearing?" Just like that.

She said without batting an eyelash, "Well I'm wearing a deep 'V' padded bra and a lightweight pantie-girdle. They are both black."

The first part of her statement surprised me, but the rest of it didn't. Because this is just the way a conversation goes when you are talking to someone in the foundation garment business.

Shaela (pronounced Shay-la) Lewis, mother of three back home in Toronto, represents the Foundation Garment Council of Canada.

She is a public relations director for the council, and distributes information for about 22 garment manufacturers across the country.

"I can't discuss brands," she apologized, "because if I named one, I'd have to name them all."

So we just discussed garments in general.

One question we talked about was elastic. I said I thought the elastic in bras was especially manufactured to last the briefest possible time. She said, on the contrary, that elastic had been vastly improved and the fault was not in the elastic but in how we washed it.

"Elastics should not be put in automatic washers, and dried under hot heat. They need hand-washing, and drying in a cool place."

On types of bras, Mrs. Lewis said she has worn the same type bra for five years. Not the same bra, the same brand.

"The answer to the right bra is the one that not only fits you best, but which fits your wardrobe best. I like the deep 'V' because, on a quick change from work in the evening into a dress with décolleté neck, it suits those occasions, too."

Deep "V" necks are good this year with lower necklines," she added.

As for her lightweight, black girdle, Mrs. Lewis said it was "spandex," which is the trade's generic term meaning, "man-made." Therefore the elastic is particularly good, she said.

"What about girdles riding up," we queried.

"Pantie-girdles never ride up," she replied, "and that's why I wear them. And so do 80 per cent of Canadian women."

It seems that pantie-girdles have a "split hip" and they give support from hip to length of the pantie. Shaela added that ordinary girdles shouldn't ride up if stockings are the right length and if they are properly "secured."

After making a few straight-forward remarks about midriff bulges and so forth, Mrs. Lewis noted that the girdle will never really replace honest-to-goodness muscle, nor

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if redoubtable pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

COMING OF AGE

With Sally Hamilton

By SALLY HAMILTON

The following conversation took place between two elderly ladies. "I really feel quite well, you know."

"Ah, yes, Margaret, but you are really in a shocking state inside."

"But at least I can get about on my feet."

"Nonsense, Margaret, you know perfectly well you can't walk a step without staggering all over the place."

Most of us have had the experience of being told we don't look as well. Let that remark be repeated to us again on the same day and we start thinking something must really be wrong. In the same way, many oldsters have an idea that to be old is to be illing.

Adapting to change is a necessary part of life. That first day in kindergarten, have you forgotten it? How you had to get used to being away from your mother?

Or, as you grew from adolescence into adulthood, how bewildering it was!

When you married, you had to adjust to someone else's needs, some of them as trivial as opening the window at night.

The advent of babies with all their demands; and the departure from the nest of your full-grown sons and daughters.

Adapting to another milestone — retirement — comes later. The home stretch of our lives promises to be relatively long. The more we look forward and plan ahead, the healthier we can be both physically and mentally.

Do you laugh off a medical examination by saying you feel "as good as ever?" If you do, you may be working yourself into trouble.

Really know how you are by getting a medical checkup at least once a year—even if you are feeling fine. This is not making a fuss; it is just good sense. There are diseases that may not show up in discomfort or weakness for years.

Your doctor will also tell you what food you should eat, what bends, stretches and walking you should do; he'll give you chapter and verse about how much activity and how much rest you should be getting. Pay attention! Write it down so you don't forget.

As we age, we need to eat, but we do need what will do us the most good. Trying to live on tea and toast, or soup and crackers (because they are easy to fix) is just plain folly. Don't skimp on:

● Meat, fish and poultry. A shortage of these food proteins at any age can result in the weakening of muscles, loss of staying power and a decreased ability to fight infection.

● Milk — another source of protein—will help you to keep well. Nothing can take its place and it's never too late to start drinking it: two glasses a day. The calcium in it helps to keep your bones from becoming brittle and easily broken. Milk also contains important vitamins and (for an extra bonus) assists elimination.

Do skimp on:

● Fats. They are hard to digest and high in calories.

● Avoid heavy meals.

THE DIFFERENCE IN DRY VERMOUTHS

Most brands of dry vermouth are not quite as dry as Martini extra dry. They smell stronger... taste a little more pungent and look a little darker in the glass. Some martinis and gibsons are mixed with them... and some people prefer it.

Martini extra dry is a lighter, clearer drier vermouth. Because of this it is more subtle in cocktails. Never intrudes. Many martinis and gibsons are mixed with Martini extra dry vermouth because many people prefer it.

BBC Loses

LONDON (UPI) — The number of viewers watching BBC television programs in the evening has dropped by 600,000 during the past 12 months, it was disclosed Thursday.

The number of viewers available to both the BBC and Independent Television had increased by 1,000,000.

Critics Hail Hamlet Portrayal

TORONTO (CP) — Christopher Plummer's portrayal of Hamlet in a three-hour BBC production of the Shakespearean classic, given its world television premiere Wednesday night on the CBC, is being hailed as classic.

Not all Toronto television critics were as ecstatic as Dennis Braithwaite of The Globe and Mail, but all agreed the Canadian actor brought a new depth and dimension to the portrayal.

Moreover, all agreed that Plummer, star of the $150,000 production filmed at the actual site chosen by Shakespeare—Kronborg Castle in Elsinore, Denmark — was backed by what may be one of the finest supporting casts ever assembled.

Almost as highly praised as Plummer was Robert Shaw, who played King Claudius.

Only notes of criticism came in connection with the setting, which Braithwaite said had a distracting effect on the voices of the actors, with the castle structure causing them to ring and echo in some scenes and fade almost to obscurity in others.

Garden Notes

Fertilizing the Lawn

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRMS

It isn't the easiest job in the world to buy fertilizer for the front lawn. Not that the stuff is scarce or hard to come by—far from it; the fact is, there are so many different brands and formulations on the market it is difficult for the novice to make a choice.

I don't suppose you will find any two gardeners who can agree on what constitutes a good lawn fertilizer. Some of my very good friends and neighbors will use nothing but "natural" or organic fertilizers—bone meal, pulverized sheep manure, processed sewage and the like—claiming chemicals "poison" the soil. These nature boys point out, in support of their argument, many of the golf courses hereabouts use organic lawn foods of the sewage by-products.

I have nothing against organic fertilizers except their cost. While a 25-pound bag may sell for around the same price as a similar quantity of chemicals, it will not contain anything like as much actual plant food, hence it doesn't go nearly as far. Chemicals are by far the cheapest way to feed the lawn, and chemicals do not poison the soil.

Organics do have one big advantage, though—you can scatter the stuff all over the lawn without any fear of burning the grass with an overdose, and this can be important if you are a heavy-handed, ham-fisted operator like me. This is, in fact, the reason why so many golf course superintendents prefer organics—they can't afford to take a chance with corrosive chemical fertilizers in the hands of casual hired help.

Actually, this advantage is being lost, for chemical manufacturers are turning out lawn fertilizers nowadays of the "controlled release" or "sustained release" type which are just as safe to use as any organic type. In these, the nitrogen element is supplied in two different forms; there is a little of a quick-acting, highly soluble chemical to green up the lawn rapidly—their customers like to see some visible evidence in a hurry—but the bulk of the nitrogen is in a slow-acting, long lasting form which continues to supply the lawn with nutrients over a period of three months or more.

I don't propose to name any brands, for the competition to develop the complete and safe lawn fertilizer is so intense nowadays I doubt if any one manufacturer has much of an edge over another. A slow release formula will cost a bit more, but it is safer and better for your lawn.

For example, in one catalogue before me, the controlled release fertilizer sells for $2.75 for a 25-pound bag, while the same manufacturer's "economy brand" can be bought for $2.25. The cheaper formula will do a good job, but you run the risk of burning your grass with an overdose; moreover, you get a surge of green every time you put it on—and you must keep putting it on all summer.

For the first feed of the year, I favor a complete fertilizer—a well-balanced meal—in which nitrogen, phosphorus and potash are all combined in proper proportions to stimulate root activity as well as leaf growth. I prefer to leave the single-element chemicals such as ammonium sulphate or nitrate of soda for use as a midsummer pick-me-up.

JACK SMITH Gets a High-Rise Tour

Books Bought by Pound

Suburbia has gone about as far as it can go. The new direction of escape is up. We seem to be entering the age of the high rise.

I was invited the other day to inspect one of these perpendicular steel and concrete communities in advance of its opening.

My tour was guided by a young man who is charged with decorating the 60 or so apartments in the building.

"We've tried to keep this suite masculine," he said. "We call it executive contemporary. We just sort of arrived at that name. When you start a job, you have to refer to it as something."

There was a Guggenheim print over the sofa and a Chinese screen on the opposite wall. An antique lute hung near the door. In the den a black leather bookcase—"personal tax record"—lay casually on a black leather-topped desk. In the master's bath a safety razor, brush and mug waited on a marble-like lavatory.

"It's really synthetic marble," the young man said. "When you touch it, it doesn't have that chill, cold touch of real marble."

I sank into an orange chair and looked out the window.

"What kind of a tenant," I asked, "do you envision here?"

"A man, shall we say," he said, "with an income of $40,000 a year?"

"It's nice," I admitted, "but I was interested in something a little less, uh, exotic."

"Yes," he said. "This does have a slight flavor of Indonesia. We also have the Country English. We have five very definitely different-flavored things. We're trying to hit all levels."

He showed me down the hall to a smaller pad with a gayer look.

"This is a little brighter and more cheerful," he said, "and aimed, I do believe, at a young couple, or a career woman. I've always thought this apartment was very flexible."

He pulled back the folding door of a closet. Its interior was a lively green. "We're accenting closets with brilliant colors," he explained, "just to keep things going."

On the petite balcony a tiny table was set with a lute. "Pour déjeuner al fresco," he said.

For contrast, he showed me into an unfurnished apartment. It was like a cave with a view.

"We're finding in this day and age, the public doesn't have very much imagination," he said, explaining the importance of decor. "When they see what can be done, they move very quickly."

In the bookshelf I noticed such volumes as New Careers for Youth, The Profession of Engineering, and Mill on the Floor. On the nightstand by milady's bed was something called Away All Boats.

"Odd books for a career woman," I ventured.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Beatles Rise, Shine

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—The Beatles are working seven days a week to have their first film ready for the United States when they make their summer tour of 25 cities. Producer Walter Shenson says the Beatles are the most amiable film actors he has ever worked with—"Once I had solved the problem of persuading them to get up every day at 6:30 a.m." The usual rising time was 2 p.m. which is fairly normal for people who work at night.

Sophia Loren in Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow has never been sexier, and yet somehow she is amusing rather than lascivious.

Gina Lollobrigida is in Hollywood now making her picture, Strange Bedfellows, with Burt Reynolds. But she was recently in the Orient. And it could have been coincidence of course, but while Gina was in Japan, Burt Reynolds, her Florida investment friend, was also there. Gina has denied a romance with him. Okay, it was probably coincidence.

A letter from Rome advises that the film industry there is still in a bad way, although Fellini will soon be starting his picture with his wife, Giulietta and the Ghosts. Her last name is Masina, and I haven't seen her in a film since La Strada, and I will never forget that. What performances from the lady and from Anthony Quinn and Richard Basehart!

My letter from Rome adds, "There are strange rumors about the solvency of Dino de Laurentiis. Some people say he found Texas money for The Bible. Other sources swear he is broke and that Dino's film has been cancelled and The Bible is falling to pieces." I don't believe the latter is true. John Huston, while cutting his Night of the Iguana in London, is also lining up people for The Bible. And John is not a man to waste his time.

Couple — Xavier Cugat — was willing to give Abbe Lane top billing if she would only come back to him. But Abbe prefers to strike out on her own as a single. That's the way the marriage crumbles.

What a break for Ray Walston to get the Peter Sellers' role in Kiss Me Stupid. Ray had a bit in the Billy Wilder picture, The Apartment. He has become somewhat better known for his TV series, My Favorite Martian. Ed Caesar had been considered for the Sellers' part, also Jack Lemmon and Tony Randall. But Wilder remembered Ray from The Apartment. It could add up to a new star in the Hollywood heavens.

Watch Gift Costly Honor

STANTON, England (CP)—A Derbyshire ironworks company, issuing long-service gold watches, pondered how to get one to John Potts, 47, head of its Canadian sales division. Executives weighed the risk of mailing the watch, finally sent Potts, of Stony Creek, Ont., a return air ticket for the presentation costing $50. "This must be the most expensive long-service award in history," said the Canadian appreciatively.

Rifle Shoot Postponed

Sunday's FN rifle shoot at Heil's Range for reserve sailors of HMCS Malahat has been cancelled, according to a reserve division spokesman. It will be held at a later date.

Utopia on TV

By JACK THATCHER

Pity that Plato, Sir Thomas More, Sam Butler and Edward Bellamy, in their dreams of Utopia, could not have been exposed to TV drama.

How beautifully organized everything is in a TV play. No apartment dweller ever suffers from quarrelling neighbors, slamming doors or furniture being moved overhead. When he goes to his car it never fails to start. And how swiftly it starts. He slides in with the agility of a greased eel, has the key in the lock, the ignition switched on, the car in gear and the brake released all in three seconds. (I can never do it under four.)

And when he travels, no red traffic signals bar his progress. He never gets stuck behind some road-blocking woman who is signalling left while turning right. When he gets to his destination he always, but always, finds a convenient parking space. How Utopian can anything get?

The very horses are models of decorum. No evidence of their passage is ever seen.

In a land of perpetual summer we never observe a sheriff to escort his horse can gallop for miles and never show signs of fatigue or, indeed, is quite ready apparently to gallop miles and miles back home again.

If art is supposed to hold up a mirror to life, and we can assume that this is an art, why is the image so much larger and brighter than nature?

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

In a competitive auction, it is very important for a weak hand to show limited support for partner, rather than to introduce a new suit.

South's failure to follow this principle condemned his partner to silence and cost the rubber on today's hand.

In view of the highly competitive situation, North might have opened one no trump despite being a trump short; afterward, he wished he had. His actual one diamond opening was overcalled by East with one heart, and South was pleased to make the "cheap" bid of one spade. It turned out to be expensive; the bidding was too high for comfort when it came around again and he dared not risk the strong-sounding call of four diamonds, for fear that it might invite North to bid five. Four diamonds would have been a good save against three hearts, even if East defeated it by getting a quick club ruff.

Had South bid two diamonds on the first round, he could still have bid three spades over three hearts if necessary; once he had shown a weak hand he is invariably better to limit your strength by showing support immediately, bidding the higher-ranking suit later if the occasion demands it.

There was a keen battle of wits before East made his three heart contract. North won the diamond opening and switched at once to the spade queen; he realized that the defence needed spade tricks and he proposed ruffing the third round of the suit, under- leading the diamond ace if necessary to gain entry to partner's hand.

East was on his toes, however; he ducked the first spade, then the second, and played off three rounds of clubs. Instead of ruffing the third club, he discarded his losing diamond, killing the entry to the South hand. He could not be prevented from reaching dummy with a trump and discarding his remaining spade loser on the established clubs.

Parley Called

Aldermen Move To Limit Empress Laundry

City legislative committee took steps yesterday to block the Empress Hotel from using its laundry for commercial purposes.

As a start, the committee called for a policy meeting with senior CPR officials to discuss the problem which was pointed out several days ago by other laundries in Victoria.

REFEAL STUDIED

The committee is also considering the possibility of repealing a three-year-old amendment which allows the hotel laundry to do commercial work for up to two outside concerns.

Dennis Young, city manager, told the committee that if the Empress does enter the commercial laundry field "we will have to license them and assess them on the business tax."

The amendment was brought in originally to allow the Empress laundry to do emergency work for St. Joseph's Hospital while the laundry at the hospital was being rebuilt.

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell mentioned that the Empress laundry does not pay any licence fee or water rate, and said, "I think it's an imposition on the part of the CPR." "I agree," said Ald. Lily Wilson, who suggested the amendment be rescinded.

OTHER DECISIONS

Other decisions at city hall yesterday:

● Finance committee decided to award a $2,100 contract, representing the lowest bid, to J. de Bois for demolition of the Mountain View Home building on Oakboro Bay Road.

● Finance committee recommended that council maintain the 6 1/2 per cent business tax assessment rate, which will bring an estimated $388,000 into the city coffers in 1964—about $14,000 more than last year because of natural growth in the area.

● Legislative committee asked the city manager to report on a request of Robert Keene, president of the South Van Isle Lions Club, for permission for the club to occasionally operate a mobile canteen in areas of the city which are not now being serviced, such as the Ogden Point breakwater and Clover Point.

Tractor Declares Holiday

Pupils at Willows school got an unexpected half day holiday when a tractor working on the new addition broke a water main and cut off the school's water supply.

The main was broken shortly before noon and could not be replaced until 3 p.m.

Toilet facilities were unusable and the hot water heating system could not be used.

Classes will resume this morning.

Province-Wide Plea

Keep Your Hands Off Wild Flowers

Proper education is the only effective way to stop people picking B.C.'s slowly disappearing wild flowers, provincial botanist Dr. Adam Szczawinski said yesterday.

He was issuing a province-wide plea asking people to protect, not pick, wild flowers.

"As more and more of the land is taken for buildings, particularly around the Victoria area, the native plants are disappearing," he said.

$25 FINE

Trillium, dogwood and rhododendron are already protected by the law—with a $25 fine—but it is difficult to make sure the law was enforced, he said.

Dr. Szczawinski said he would like to see other plants such as Easter lilies and Calypso—added to the protected list, sometime in the future.

ONLY WAY

"And the department of recreation should keep the matter under constant observation," he added. "I firmly believe that the only way to make people respect preservation is to teach it in schools and instill it into children's minds."

Board Names Principals For Two Area Schools

Elizabeth Fisher and Belmont high schools will have their own principals in September.

John C. Holt, principal of Lucerne Secondary school at New Denver, B.C., has been named principal of Elizabeth Fisher.

A. H. Stephenson, who has been in charge of both schools, becomes full time principal at Belmont.

Decision to separate the administration of the schools was made last year when the board decided each school would have its own principal, starting this year.

Mr. Holt was appointed after the board interviewed three applicants during the Easter holidays.

The new principal is an ex-RAF flight lieutenant and became a teacher in Great Britain and continued his training when he came to Canada.

In New Denver, Mr. Holt has been president of the community club, member of the Royal Canadian Legion and the chamber of commerce and is active in the Anglican Church of which he is choirmaster and layreader.

Glider Pilots Flee in Plane

MINDEN (Reuters) — Two young East German glider pilots who had never flown a powered plane made a daring 60-mile escape to West Germany in a stolen private aircraft early Thursday.

They made a blind takeoff in darkness from an airfield under the noses of Russian military units, and made a perfect landing in a cornfield here.

Synod Standard

Five Per Cent Minimum For Giving

The Anglican Synod of the diocese of B.C. yesterday approved five per cent of a parishioner's annual income as the approved "minimum standard of giving."

In recommending it to church members, the synod fell in line with the standard affirmed by the Executive Council of General Synod of 1963. It amounts to $1 per week per $1,000 annual income.

The synod, which was attended by clerical and lay delegates from all parishes on Vancouver Island, had its final session yesterday afternoon.

The group endorsed the report of the Anglican and Roman Catholic joint college committee and instructed the committee to continue its work.

ECUMENICAL CENTRE

"It is not our purpose to form an exclusive religious group on the campus of Victoria University," Archbishop J. W. Forth, president of the Victoria Council of Churches, read from the report.

"We aim to establish rather an ecumenical centre which would provide the opportunity for participation to any group which is interested."

UNIQUE COLLEGE
The proposed college is unique in Canada, if not in the world. There are many universities with denominational colleges but none with a joint Anglican-Roman Catholic college.

The Anglican and Roman Catholic communities have been working for almost a year toward the proposal for formation of the college, under a single jurisdiction with equitable representation and financial responsibilities for both communities.

The University Senate appointed a sub-committee which is now working with the joint committee.

OTHER COULD JOIN

Archbishop Forth said no approach has been made to the synod by other churches, although it was possible that United, Presbyterian and other Christian churches could participate in the college.

Other resolutions passed at yesterday's sessions were: That a link be established with dioceses of the South Pacific or some other diocese where the Anglican Church is at work.

That all churches observe next Sunday as a day of prayer for victims of the recent Alberta and West Coast flood disaster.

School Aid Called Cheap Trick

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal leader Ray Perrault Thursday accused the Social Credit government of using a "cheap political trick" in announcing provincial grants to schools.

The government claimed a $15 increase in the homeowner grant represented more financial support for schools while it actually cut its grants to school districts, he told a Liberal meeting.

"It's a cheap political trick of trying to make local government look as money-grabbing as possible and Victoria as generous as possible."

Commonwealth

Rhodesia Thorny Problem

LONDON (CP) — Southern Rhodesia was the problem uppermost in many minds here when Sir Alec Douglas-Home confirmed Thursday that a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference will be held in July.

Prime Minister Douglas-Home told the Commons the meeting will come in the first half of July and Commonwealth chiefs will soon discuss an agenda.

July 7 has been mentioned as a possible opening date for the talks which will likely go on eight or 10 days—only a few months before Britain's general election, scheduled for autumn. At least 15 countries will attend, 11 of them independent less than eight years.

The unusually long period since the last conference was held in September, 1962, reflects uncertainty about the future of the

Sandys on Commonwealth

'Living Organization'

Jackson

MONTREAL (UPI) — Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys Thursday defended the Commonwealth as "a living organization that is changing all the time" when he spoke at the opening of the British Motor Show.

Enough Said

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Top" artist Andrew Warhol was commissioned to paint a sociological comment on a factor of American life for decoration at the world fair's New York state pavilion.

His contribution was unveiled Thursday — the faces of the city's 13 most wanted criminals blow up in a 20-by-30-foot mural.

"Far from declining, the Commonwealth is expanding and co-operating in its common cause," said Sandys. "The constant series of meetings reflects its essential character."

On the subject of Anglo-Canadian trade, Sandys said his government was pressing for a "more level balance," and expressed the hope both countries would try to redress the imbalance, now weighted heavily in favor of Canada.

"In order to maintain our overseas markets and sales, we have to offer something special . . . in higher quality or lower prices," he said.

Will U.S. Hit Back?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senator Henry Jackson of Washington Thursday asked the administration whether it has assured Canada the United States will not retaliate against an extension of Canadian fishing waters.

Canada plans to extend its fishing limits to 12 miles on May 15.

In a Senate speech, Jackson said that H. J. Robichaud, Canadian minister of fisheries, told a member of the Canadian House last month there was no indication of United States retaliation.

Jackson said it would be interesting to find out if the administration has given such assurances about Canada's unilateral decision to extend American fishing.

Jackson said President Kennedy informed Canadian leaders last May that the United States would reserve its rights in these waters.

Jackson said there have also been indications that Canada plans to claim as territorial waters Hecate Strait where many Pacific Northwest fishermen operate, as well as the Gulf of St. Lawrence and large bodies of water in the Atlantic and Pacific.

He said this would create precedents gravely affecting the freedom of the navy and air force to operate over the high seas.

Abel's Wings Tax Toronto, 4-3

DETROIT — Sid Abel, the Red Wings coach, tried to explain why his club looked tired last night. Toronto Maple Leafs weren't among his believers, however, they had just lost, 4-3, to fall behind 2-1 in their Stanley Cup hockey series.

"Most of our boys were busy with their lawyers figuring their income tax Wednesday," said Abel.

Canada Boom Surges Higher

OTTAWA (CP) — The national economy, ending 1963 on an upbeat note, registered a 6.6-per-cent gain in output during the year as the current long-lived business expansion began to rival the two postwar booms.

Gross national product—total value of goods and services produced—reached $43,007,000,000 the bureau of statistics reported Thursday. The increase was $2,688,000,000 over the revised 1962 total of $40,319,000,000.

PRICES RISING

With prices rising 1.8 per cent—about the same as in 1962—the volume of national production expanded 4.6 per cent compared with 61 per cent in 1962. The 6.6-per-cent GNP rise shown in the bureau's report—surpassed the estimate of six per cent made only a month ago by Finance Minister Gordon in his budget speech.

As anticipated, the economy's performance in the fourth quarter was the strongest of the year, with gross national product rising 2.9 per cent from the third quarter to an annual rate of $44,332,000,000. Output in real volume terms rose 2.3 per cent.

SHARP GAIN

The gain in the October-December quarter was one of the sharpest since the current economic expansion began early in 1961.

The bureau report does not call this expansion a boom. But it said that in its first 24 years, output in real volume terms rose 17.3 per cent compared with 21 per cent in the comparable period of the 1954-57 capital spending boom and 19 per cent in the 1949-52 Korean War expansion.

Treasure In Beer Can

Being examined by Mrs. Leonard Wolke and Cornelius Vermeulen, officials of Boston Museum of Fine Arts, is a fragile, two-inch, 1,200-year-old Greek carrying image of goddess Nike, found buried in a beer can in Boston park. Barring was stolen from museum last September. — (AP Photo-fax)

Shrine Nudged By Wall

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist police Thursday pushed a new section of the Berlin wall through the edge of a memorial to a refugee slain by Red border guards.

WITHIN 10 YARDS

The work, which began Monday night and continued Wednesday night, moved the new section of wall to within 10 yards of a rough wooden cross honoring the memory of Peter Fechter, a young East German shot down in 1962 while trying to scale the barrier and flee to the west.

CAMPUS TOWN PLAN BARED

By TED GASKELL

Plan for a University of Victoria - controlled development of an apartment village on the Lansdowne campus acreage at a cost of between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000, was presented to the public at a meeting last night.

More than 200 residents of Oak Bay — and a few from Saanich — were present to hear details of the proposal which could provide the university with an endowment revenue of more than $750,000 a year in 15 or 20 years when the development is paid for.

The development board has assurance that loans for the construction of the 630-suite development would be insured by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

SECOND SCHEME

The plan is the second the university development board has proposed for the 35 acres on Foul Bay Road.

The first plan, for six-storey apartment buildings and some single family dwellings, met

Operation Death

Graham

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury hearing an inquest into the post-operative death of 54-year-old Palmerston widow Mrs. Noer ruled Thursday that there was no significant evidence of negligence.

They reached the decision while admitting there were serious and unfortunate errors made during the operation.

Mrs. Noer died in Palmerston General Hospital eight days after Dr. Kenneth Graham, 38, of Palmerston had performed a gall bladder operation on her. A clamp was found inside Mrs. Noer, but the jury said this did not contribute to the death. However, it said it did show signs of lack of care on the part of Dr. Graham, in this phase of the operation.

The jury statement said death was caused by bile peritonitis which resulted from two significant surgical errors.

DISSECTION INADEQUATE
First, insufficient and inadequate dissection of the operative area, including failure to identify distinctly the cystic and hepatic ducts and the common bile duct, and particularly the junction of the cystic and common bile duct.

Second, inadequate closing of the cystic duct.

Shoplifting Research By 'Bomb' Planter Fascinates Magistrate

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man who once planted a fake atomic bomb in the back yard of the White House dropped another "bomb" in police court Thursday.

Nicholas Schatroph told magistrate Bernard Isman that he deliberately shoplifted a $4 carving fork from a department store so that he could write the final chapter to a study he is making on shoplifting.

He said he wanted "first-hand experience" on the problem of shoplifting.

Schatroph, charged after store security officers arrested him on the street outside the store, said he took the fork intentionally so he could study co-operation "between shoplifters and the store, co-operation between the store and police and shoplifters and police."

All the relationships were good, he said, except the one between shoplifters and the store.

Pearson Greetings

Hope for World Khrushchev Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told Soviet Premier Khrushchev Thursday there is more hope for solving the world's international problems.

His comment was contained in a message of greetings to the Soviet premier who celebrates his 70th birthday today.

"You are celebrating it, your birthday, at a time when there is a greater hope than formerly for finding solutions to the serious international problems that confront us," Mr. Pearson said.

"Such solutions will take time but they are essential to the peace for which there now is no tolerable alternative."

"We all recognize that the co-operation of the Soviet Union as one of the world's most powerful states and under your leadership is an indispensable element in the patient and persistent exploration of all measures which may contribute to a better understanding between nations."

Outside Staff Votes to Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — The men who drive the trucks, collect the garbage, repair the streets and perform most of the outside operations for Canada's third largest city have voted to go on strike.

Khrushchev Is Still Alive

Mao Offers Best Wishes

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev received congratulations on his 70th birthday today from Chinese Communist chief Mao Tse-tung, with whom he is carrying on a bitter struggle for control of world communism.

Khrushchev was also named Hero of the Soviet Union, the country's highest honor, and praised by all the top men in the Kremlin.

Mao, the Chinese leader whom Khrushchev assailed publicly only Wednesday, said he was convinced their differences were temporary.

Timmins Sits on Jewelry Store

TIMMINS, Ont. (UPI) — "We're sitting on top of a jewelry store here . . . and we love it."

That was mayor Leo del Villano's jubilant reaction Thursday to word that an American mining company has made a "major" copper-zinc-silver discovery near this northern Ontario mining centre.

(See also stories, Page 10). The discovery, announced in New York by Texas Gulf Sulphur Company president

Claude O. Stephens, set off a flurry of trading in mining stocks on both the New York and Toronto exchanges.

Reports from New York suggested fortunes had been made by land speculators. The Toronto market, with trading totalling more than 4,000,000 shares in the first hour, appeared headed for a volume record.

But nothing was more demonstrative than the almost "gold rush" reaction with which this community of 29,000 greeted the news. Scores of mining prospectors thronged the downtown business section. Even housewife chatter across the back fence reflected the town feeling that big days lay ahead.

"This is one of the biggest days in Northern Ontario's history," said del Villano, a part-time liquor salesman who has been mayor for eight years. "There's only one word to sum up how we feel—wonderful."

Del Villano said he and many others in the community believed there was a great deal more mineral wealth in the area "just waiting to be found."

"We feel we're sitting on top of a jewelry store, and we haven't even begun to get at the wealth," he said.

The mayor felt the Texas Gulf discovery came at a "most opportune" time, because some 1,800 jobs were scheduled to be lost this year with the closure of a veteran Hollinger mine owned by Consolidated Gold Mines Limited.

"The town might have been in some trouble when the mine shut down, but now things look all right," he said.

He said the Timmins council would do everything in its power to assist prospective mine operators get information about the area and its potential. "We intend to treat these people right," he promised.

Flood Area Cared For —Laing

OTTAWA (CP)—Northern Affairs Minister Laing said in the Commons Thursday that the general immediacy of the situation in the flood-stricken area of Vancouver Island has been taken care of.

He told Tom Barnett (NDP, Comox-Alberni) that the feeling is that reconstruction will take place in the Alberni and Port Alberni area, which suffered from tidal waves in the wake of the Good Friday earthquakes in Alaska.

Mr. Barnett asked whether the government has received a request to name a representative to the Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund committee.

Mr. Laing said he had received a telegram from Port Alberni's mayor asking that an appointment be made and that he had also been in touch by telephone with British Columbia's deputy welfare minister.

The northern affairs minister said he had hesitated to appoint a member to a committee supervising a fund to which the federal government is not contributing.

The federal government's view was that it was better to wait until an official damage assessment was presented to the British Columbia government.

'... To Fix Your Town'

PORT ALBERNI—A group of Victoria children has raised $13 for Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund. Their contribution was received by Mayor Les Hammer along with a letter in which the six signers said "We all hope you will use this in any way to fix up your town."

Drive to Aid Fund

QUALICUM — A door-to-door blitz campaign for funds for the Alberni Valley, West Coast Disaster Fund will take place Saturday from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in School District 69, which includes Qualicum Beach, Bowser, Parksville, Hilliers, Combs, Errington and Nanos Bay. A goal of $4,000 has been set.

Long Race Ahead

Leo Kallia and Murray Grant, Port Alberni left Vancouver Thursday as contestants in Shell 4500 Vancouver-Montreal race. Driving Chevy II will be Grant, while Kallia is taking on the chores of navigator. Two men, partners in garage business, are only Vancouver Island contestants. —(Margaret Trebetti)

Guests at Courtenay

Adjudicator Praises Children from Alberni

ALBERNI—Children invited as guest performers at an adult drama festival won high praise from adjudicator Sam Paine, according to reports from the North Island festival at Courtenay.

The youngsters, students at Alberni Elementary School, are members of the cast of The Red Velvet Coat which will be presented in An Evening of Drama, scheduled for the school auditorium at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 22. They went to Courtenay on special invitation from the festival committee.

Rosalind Midgley, who won best actress and best performer awards at the festival, will be one of the stars on the program.

Miss Midgley is one of the Alberni school teachers who played in The Devil Among the Skins at the festival. The same play will be presented by the staff members on Wednesday night.

An operetta will be on the program with the two plays.

None Injured In Derailment

GALLOWAY, Alta (CP) — Twenty-five cars of an east-bound Canadian National Railways freight train were derailed Thursday at this town, blocking the CN's main east-west line. No injuries were reported.

A CN spokesman said a burned-off journal on one of the freight cars was believed responsible for the accident. There were 110 cars in the train, half of them carrying lumber and the others empty. The derailment delayed east and westbound Super Continental passenger trains by four hours.

Duncan Chamber

No Races for Prairie Visitors

DUNCAN — After about two years of deliberations and investigations, directors of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce have given their blessing to refurbishing of a billboard sign at the city's southern approach, for which downtown retailers will pay.

The directors hope the job will be done quickly.

The deputy minister of highways, H. T. Miard, advised the Chamber here, his field men will investigate a 2,300-foot long log jam in the Koksilah River near the Trans-Canada Highway four miles south of Duncan which poses a flood threat.

TOO EARLY

The weekend of July 12 is too early for the Corpus Christi Indian canoe races and a group of prairie people scheduled to visit this area at that time will have to be entertained otherwise.

Cliff Pascoe told the Chamber directors here other Vancouver Island centres will provide the visitors on their four-week Island tour with some kind of entertainment.

The Indian sports here, highlighted by the canoe races will be held on the second weekend in August this year.

The incoming Chamber executive will face a $300-grant request from the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau.

The same amount was contributed last year by the Chamber and the city of Duncan matched it.

Directors felt it was "not quite fair" to expect the city of Duncan to contribute $300, while North Cowichan municipality, three times as big, was only assessed $100 last year.

the Kootenays, promoted by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

It is hoped to have Gerald Wellburn, owner of the historical logging and transportation collection at Deerholme, as guest speaker at the Chamber's installation banquet, May 14.

Chamber director Dobson, referring to the newly-planned logging museum here, warned the Chamber board:

"If this district cannot underwrite the project, it will not remain in Duncan for five minutes," and other directors strongly endorsed the suggestion to make the museum the Chamber's No. 1 project.

The museum will be located at Drinkwater Road and the Trans-Canada Highway, a few miles north of the city.

Mr. Dobson said the problems of the Cowichan Forest

Museum Society are payment for 19 acres of land and possibly another two and a half acres, and the museum's transfer from its Deerholme site.

He said councils at Duncan, North Cowichan and Lake Cowichan, and firms here and elsewhere in the Cowichan Valley, have pledged support. A Chamber fund drive, recommended by Mr. Pascoe, will be decided by the incoming executive.

Port Thanks Black

PORT ALBERNI — A letter of thanks and good wishes will go from Port Alberni council to Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

Council members authorized the letter to the former minister of municipal affairs, Mayor Les Hammer remarking, "We received a good deal of co-operation from Mr. Black and his department, especially during our long fight over fixed assessments."

Pink Gulls May Be Hand-Tinted

LAKE COWICHAN — Salt Spring Island residents who were startled this past winter to see pink seagulls may take heart — pink birds have been seen in the Prairie provinces, too.

When the Colonist ran a story about Salt Spring's pink gulls, Archdeacon R. B. Horsfield of Lake Cowichan sent the clipping to a naturalist friend, Sam Waller, proprietor of The Little Northern Museum at The Pass, Man.

Mr. Waller wrote back, in part:

"In my museum here is a mallard duck, mounted with wings spread, and it is pink—a shade known by women as 'shocking pink'.

"It was dyed at Chataqua, Ill., in 1897, and shot at Moose Lake by an Indian the next spring.

"They are dyed by biologists, as although they may winter in a certain area, they have their own flyways and it is interesting to know where they fork out in various directions.

"The experiment has also been tried with other birds, notably swans and I believe even some types of owls, and I think some were dyed green.

"They are banded at the same time, but people who might see a bird with such strange coloring would probably make it known to a game official and they would report it.

"There is a gull of the Prairie, called the Franklin gull, that is a lovely carmine pink, but the coloring can hardly be seen unless one is actually handling a newly-killed bird.

"This color fades from the feathers after the bird has been dead a few days."

Indefinite Detention Ordered

DUNCAN—Ronald Forrest of Duncan will be detained for an indefinite period at an industrial mental institution at Esquimalt.

A month ago he appeared before Magistrate D. K. McAdam on a charge of indecent assault on a 10-year-old girl.

He was examined at Esquimalt and Thursday was found unfit to stand trial.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Two Campbell River men suffered nothing worse than tired feet, but Trans-Mountain Air Services lost the use of a Fleet 80 Canuck training plane, in a crash Wednesday on Texada Island.

Pilot-instructor Don Mathieson and student pilot Morris Waldret were on a routine training flight out of Campbell River and had made a successful practice landing at a remote logging company landing strip on the east side of Texada Island.

On take-off, at about 1:45 p.m., the craft had climbed to 250 feet when it hit a down-draft and was forced down into an alder thicket which made the landing almost gentle.

The two men climbed out and set off on a nearby logging road for civilization. Five miles later they came to a dead end and had to return to the plane.

Nearby they found a small, abandoned logging camp where they took shelter for the night.

HIKED MILES

Early Thursday the men climbed a 2,000 foot ridge, then hiked 25 miles through the brush to the Forbes Bay Logging operations on the west coast of Texada.

Loggers there fed them and called an aircraft to pick them up. Later an Island Airlines Beaver piloted by Bob Savage returned the men to Campbell River.

BIGGEST JOB

Forrest Cochran, owner of Trans-Mountain, said the airframe and engine of the damaged Fleet trainer were salvageable, but the biggest job would be getting them out.

The trainer was purchased from Victoria Flying Club, and is well-known to Vancouver Island and coastal pilots who took their first training at her controls.

Cowichan Bond Bylaw Gets Second Reading

NORTH COWICHAN—Council has given two readings to a bylaw which, when passed, will authorize the municipality to call for tenders for the sale of $415,000 worth of debentures.

It will be the final contribution from North Cowichan to the newly planned $3,500,000 Cowichan District Hospital.

The total amount to be contributed by the municipality is $515,000, of which $100,000 was given about two years ago after ratepayers approved the expenditure.

OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS

Other Cowichan Valley contributors are the Koksalah and Lake Cowichan Hospital Improvement districts, $367,010, and $527,960 respectively, and the city of Duncan, $186,334.

Both senior governments share in the balance, but the provincial government will pay most of the remaining $2,061,623.

Eric Carlsen of 1671 St. Francis Wood, son of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Carlsen, was selected from a list of seven applicants.

Nanaimo Farmers

Control Area Asked To Erase Ragwort

NANAIMO — The Farmers Association is attempting to set up a weed control area in farming districts around Nanaimo to eradicate the killer weed, tansy ragwort.

The association has organized a committee headed by Joseph Garner of Estevan to prevent the spread of the daisy-like weed which is believed to have caused the death of several farm animals in the district.

AWAITING VISIT

Mrs. Garner, secretary of the committee, said the association is awaiting a visit from B.C. agriculture minister Frank Richter, and at that time will discuss the possibility of obtaining government backing for their attempt to rid Vancouver Island of the deadly weed.

More News Of Island On Page 6

A. J. Renney, associate professor in the faculty of agriculture at the University of British Columbia, said:

"Poisoning from the alkaloid contained in ragwort is cumulative and small amounts ingested over a period of time may result in death."

TANSY RAGWORT

He said animals which have been poisoned from eating tansy ragwort usually develop cirrhosis of the liver, and cattle may develop a tendency to attack anyone nearby.

Horses are also affected but sheep are not poisoned to nearly the same extent.

Mr. Renney said there is no satisfactory treatment of poisoned animals and the only effective prevention is completely ridding the farm lands of the weed.

Mrs. Garner said:

"We are doing our best now in an all-out effort to eradicate the weed before it goes any farther."

Teachers Attend Language Parley

Five members of the University of Victoria modern languages department are attending the Pacific Northwest Conferences on Foreign Languages at Missoula, Montana.

At the conference, which ends Saturday, are Dr. W. H. Hickman, Dr. J. B. MacLean, J. E. Travis, Miss Barbara Richardson and Miss Adriana Sliarscaanu.

Undesirable

Ald. William Goddard also opposed the rezoning, saying the city had had considerable trouble with basement suites which, on occasion, had been undesirable from a health standpoint.

FOR RELATIVES

The suite, he said, was for relatives coming from India. Length of time it would be used depended on how long they would take to establish their own home.

"We need town planning advice," Mayor Les Hamner said when a group appeared supporting a petition to establish a bowling alley on property formerly occupied by the curling rink.

It was pointed out that the area is already zoned for commercial use, so no rezoning was necessary.

Hassle Over Trees

Christmas in April

NANAIMO—A Christmas tree hassle has ended in civil assize court in Nanaimo with a local supplier being awarded $650.

A shipment of Christmas trees, grown by John Gogo, bought by David MacNair Company of Vancouver, and shipped via Saskatchewan to Texas, arrived in time for the 1963 Christmas season dried out and with the needles dropping off.

TREES CUT

The Vancouver company sued Mr. Gogo for $4,500, claiming the trees were cut before the fall frost and not treated properly. Mr. Gogo sued the Vancouver company for $3,650 on the basis that if the trees had been shipped through a warmer route rather than the dry cold of the Prairie provinces they would not have died.

An eight-man jury ruled in favor of Mr. Gogo's claim and he was awarded $650 of his original $3,650 claim. Chief Justice J. O. Wilson presided.

Other Cowichan Valley contributors are the Koksalah and Lake Cowichan Hospital Improvement districts, $367,010, and $527,960 respectively, and the city of Duncan, $186,334.

Both senior governments share in the balance, but the provincial government will pay most of the remaining $2,061,623.

Building Permits Soar at Duncan

DUNCAN—Building permits issued from the city hall during March represent a total value of $39,250. Last year's total for the same period was $15,500. Three-month totals in 1963 and 1964 respectively were: $40,341 and $123,230.

Government Pays Less

School Costs Up, Nanaimo Unhappy

NANAIMO—Trustees for Nanaimo school district are not happy with the cost-sharing policies imposed by the B.C. education department.

The 1963 budget for this district was $3,763,000 and the board was responsible for 62.7 per cent of that amount. This year, the board's share of the $3,631,000 budget is 72.38 per cent or $2,644,000.

SHARE DROPS

In 1963 the government paid $1,048,000 of the school budget and their 1964 share has been reduced to $837,000.

Rural areas of school district 66 are responsible for 72 per cent of the budget. The city's share is 28.13.

Trustees said this division of payment is no longer "realistic" as it has become "unbalanced" in the last three years.

STATUS QUO STAYS

The status quo has been maintained in the walk-limit distance of two-and-a-half miles for older students.

Trustee Jack Whitlam introduced a motion to amend walk-limits which was quashed when board chairman Joe Shook broke a two-to-two tie to vote against the motion.

Teen Drivers Defended

'It's Just Not True'

Victoria Jaycees yesterday defended the city's teen-age drivers against savage criticism of teenage drivers in general made in a recent survey by leading U.S. safety experts.

In a news release, B.C. Automobile Association reports that the U.S. experts say teen-age drivers are "too good for their own good."

They drive differently, react differently and have a different storehouse of experience than older motorists, the survey said.

MAJOR FAULTS

The survey listed these major faults which the experts said were common to many teen-aged motorists:

- Young drivers can't smell danger.
- They drive too emotionally.
- They lead their cars too heavily.
- They drive too fast.
- They repeat their mistakes.
- They pick bad companions who goad them into taking chances.
- They want to be too good too soon, not sensing that experience on the highway is the only way of learning how to be a good driver.

But yesterday, members of Victoria's Junior Chamber of Commerce resented the comments of the experts.

NOT HERE

"While these things may be true of certain teen-agers, they're certainly not applicable to Victoria's teen-age drivers in general," said Jaycee Terry Farmer.

"Victoria boasts many car clubs, the members of which probably look after their cars and drive them more safely than many average members of the public."

Terry Nex, who was in charge of the two recent safe-driving roadshows staged by the Jaycees said:

"The overwhelming response and interest shown in our safe-driving campaigns shows that these things are just not true of the majority of Victoria's teen-agers."

BIGGEST HAZARD

"The drunken driver—who is more often adult rather than a teen-ager—is probably the biggest and most dangerous hazard on the roads today."

"The demerits which teen-age car club members suffer within their club when they break a moving law often lasts them more than the fine. They spend thousands of dollars rebuilding and repainting their cars too—they'd just be foolish to risk damaging them after spending so much money."

"There's a percentage of bad and dangerous drivers in every age group—let's not just blame the teen-agers."

Oak Bay Avenue

Drive-In Car Noise Pondered by City

City health and welfare committee pondered the question of how to reduce noise near a drive-in on Oak Bay Avenue.

Noise from the drive-in, in a commercial strip running through a residential area, has drawn numerous complaints from residents of the area.

City manager Dennis Young was asked yesterday to bring in a report on how the noise of traffic entering and leaving the drive-in might be reduced.

STOP ROWDYISM

He told the committee that a commissioner has been hired by operators of the drive-in to prevent rowdiness on the lot itself.

"We wonder if limitations should be imposed on the hours they are allowed to stay open," said Mr. Young, adding that while the drive-in operators are "reasonably effective" in curtailing noise they cannot do much about the starting and stopping of car motors.

Commonwealth

Rhodesia Thorny Problem

LONDON (CP) — Southern Rhodesia was the problem uppermost in many minds here when Sir Alec Douglas-Home confirmed Thursday that a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference will be held in July.

Prime Minister Douglas-Home told the Commons the meeting will come in the first half of July and Commonwealth chiefs will soon discuss an agenda.

July 7 has been mentioned as a possible opening date for the talks which will likely go on eight or 10 days—only a few months before Britain's general election, scheduled for autumn. At least 15 countries will attend, 11 of them independent less than eight years.

The unusually long period since the last conference was held in September, 1962, reflects uncertainty about the future of the

'Living Organization'

Jackson

MONTREAL (UPI) — Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys Thursday defended the Commonwealth as "a living organization that is changing all the time" when he spoke at the opening of the British Motor Show.

Enough Said

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Pop" artist Andrew Warhol was commissioned to paint a sociological comment on a factor of American life for decoration at the world fair's New York state pavilion.

His contribution was unveiled Thursday — the faces of the city's 15 most wanted criminals blown up in a 20-by-20-foot mural.

"Far from declining, the Commonwealth is expanding and co-operating in its common cause," said Sandys. "The constant series of meetings reflects its essential character."

On the subject of Anglo-Canadian trade, Sandys said his government was pressing for a "more level balance," and expressed the hope both countries would try to redress the imbalance, now weighted heavily in favor of Canada.

"In order to maintain our overseas markets and sales, we have to offer something special . . . in higher quality or lower prices," he said.

Will Americans Retaliate?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senator Henry Jackson of Washington Thursday asked the administration whether it has assured Canada the United States will not retaliate against an extension of Canadian fishing waters.

Canada plans to extend its fishing limits to 12 miles on May 15.

In a Senate speech, Jackson said that H. J. Robichaud, Canadian minister of fisheries, told a member of the Canadian House last month there was no indication of United States retaliation.

Jackson said it would be interesting to find out if the administration has given such assurances should Canada's unilateral decision hurt American fishing.

Jackson said President Kennedy informed Canadian leaders last May that the United States would reserve its rights in these waters.

Jackson said there have also been indications that Canada plans to claim "territorial waters" in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and large bodies of water in the Atlantic and Pacific.

He said this would create precedents gravely affecting the freedom of the navy and air force to operate over the high seas.

Abel's Wings Tax Toronto, 4-3

DETROIT — Sid Abel, the Red Wing coach, tried to explain why his club looked tired last night. Toronto Maple Leafs weren't among his believers, however, they had just lost, 4-3, to fall behind 2-1 in their Stanley Cup hockey series.

"Most of our boys were busy with their lawyers figuring their income tax Wednesday," said Abel.

Canada Boom Surges Higher

OTTAWA (CP) — The national economy, ending 1963 on an upbeat note, registered a 6.6-per-cent gain in output during the year as the current long-lived business expansion began to rival the two postwar booms.

Gross national product—total value of goods and services produced—reached $43,007,000,000 the bureau of statistics reported Thursday. The increase was $2,668,000,000 over the revised 1962 total of $40,339,000,000.

PRICES RISING

With prices rising 1.8 per cent—about the same as in 1962—the volume of national production expanded 4.6 per cent compared with 61 per cent in 1962. The 6.6-per-cent GNP rise shown in the bureau's report—first full accounting for the year—surpassed the estimate of six per cent made only a month ago by Finance Minister Gordon in his budget speech.

As anticipated, the economy's performance in the fourth quarter was the strongest of the year, with gross national product rising 2.9 per cent from the third quarter to an annual rate of $44,332,000,000. Output in real volume terms rose 2.3 per cent.

SHARP GAIN

The gain in the October-December quarter was one of the sharpest since the current economic expansion began early in 1961.

The bureau report does not call this expansion a boom. But it said that in its first 2 1/2 years, output in real volume terms rose 17.5 per cent compared with 21 per cent in the comparable period of the 1954-57 capital spending boom and 19 per cent in the 1949-52 Korean War expansion.

Shrine Nudged By Wall

A hostile crowd of shouting West Berliners gathered at the border but police prevented feared rioting.

WITHIN 10 YARDS

The work, which began Monday night and continued Wednesday night, moved the new section of wall to within 10 yards of a rough wooden cross honoring the memory of Peter Fechter, a young East German shot down in 1962 while trying to scale the barrier and flee to the west.

CAMPUS TOWN PLAN BARED

By TED GASKELL

Plan for a University of Victoria - controlled development of an apartment village on the Lansdowne campus acreage at a cost of between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000, was presented to the public at a meeting last night.

More than 200 residents of Oak Bay — and a few from Saanich — were present to hear details of the proposal which could provide the university with an endowment revenue of more than $750,000 a year in 15 or 20 years when the development is paid for.

The development board has assurance that loans for the construction of the 630-suite development would be insured by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The plan is the second the university development board has proposed for the 35 acres on Ford Bay Road. (See Picture Page 18.)

Operation Death

No Negligence

Says Jury

Graham

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury hearing an inquest into the post-operative death of 54-year-old Palmerston widow Ina Noer ruled Thursday that there was no significant evidence of negligence.

They reached the decision while admitting there were serious and unfortunate errors made during the operation.

Mrs. Noer died in Palmerston General Hospital eight days after Dr. Kenneth Graham, 38, of Palmerston had performed a gall bladder operation on her.

A clamp was found inside Mrs. Noer, but the jury said this did not contribute to the death. However, it said it did show signs of lack of care on the part of Dr. Graham, in this phase of the operation.

The jury statement said death was caused by bile peritonitis which resulted from two significant surgical errors.

First, insufficient and inadequate dissection of the operative area, including failure to identify distinctly the cystic and hepatic ducts and the common bile duct, and particularly the junction of the cystic and common bile duct.

Second, inadequate closing of the cystic duct.

The jury made no recommendations.

Shoplifting Research By 'Bomb' Planter Fascinates Magistrate

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man who once planted a fake atomic bomb in the back yard of the White House dropped another "bomb" in police court Thursday.

Nicholas Schatroph told magistrate Bernard Ieman that he deliberately shoplifted a $4 carving fork from a department store so that he could write the final chapter to a study he is making on shoplifting.

He said he wanted "first-hand experience" on the problem of shoplifting.

Schatroph, charged after store security officers arrested him on the street outside the store, said he took the fork intentionally so he could study co-operation "between shoplifters and the store, co-operation between the store and police and shoplifters and police."

All the relationships were good, he said, except the one between shoplifters and the store.

Pearson Greetings

Hope for World Khrushchev Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told Soviet Premier Khrushchev Thursday there is now more hope for solving the world's international problems.

His comment was contained in a message of greetings to the Soviet premier who celebrates his 70th birthday today.

"You are celebrating it, your birthday, at a time when there is a greater hope than formerly for finding solutions to the serious international problems that confront us," Mr. Pearson said.

"Such solutions will take time but they are essential to the peace for which there now is no tolerable alternative."

"We all recognize that the co-operation of the Soviet Union as one of the world's most powerful states and under your leadership is an indispensable element in the patient and persistent exploration of all measures which may contribute to a better understanding between nations."

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev received congratulations on his 70th birthday today from Chinese Communist chief Mao Tse-tung, with whom he is carrying on a bitter struggle for control of world communism.

Khrushchev was also named Hero of the Soviet Union, the country's highest honor, and praised by all the top men in the Kremlin.

Mao, the Chinese leader whom Khrushchev assailed publicly only Wednesday, said he was convinced their differences were temporary.

We Love It, Says Mayor

Timmins Sits on Jewelry Store

TIMMINS, Ont. (UPI) — "We're sitting on top of a jewelry store here . . . and we love it."

That was mayor Leo del Villano's jubilant reaction Thursday to word that an American mining company has made a "major" copper-silver discovery near this northern Ontario mining centre.

(See also stories, Page 10).

The discovery, announced in New York by Texas Gulf Sulphur Company president

Claude O. Stephens, set off a flurry of trading in mining stocks on both the New York and Toronto exchanges.

Reports from New York suggested fortunes had been made by land speculators. The Toronto market, with trading totalling more than 4,000,000 shares in the first hour, appeared headed for a volume record.

But nothing was more demonstrative than the almost "gold rush" reaction with which this community of 29,000 greeted the news.

Scores of mining prospectors thronged the downtown business section. Even housewife chatter across the back fence reflected the town feeling that big days lay ahead.

"This is one of the biggest days in Northern Ontario's history," said del Villano, a part-time liquor salesman who has been mayor for eight years. "There's only one word to sum up how we feel—wonderful."

Del Villano said he and many others in the community believed there was a great deal more mineral wealth in the area "just waiting to be found."

"We feel we're sitting on top of a jewelry store, and we haven't even begun to get at the wealth," he said.

The mayor felt the Texas Gulf discovery came at a "most opportune" time, because some 1,500 jobs were scheduled to be lost this year with the closure of a veteran Hollinger mine owned by Consolidated Gold Mines Limited.

"The town might have been in some trouble when the mine shut down, but now things look all right," he said.

He said the Timmins council would do everything in its power to assist prospective mine operators get information about the area and its potential.

"We intend to treat these people right," he promised.

A hostile crowd of shouting West Berliners gathered at the border but police prevented rioting.

Communist and Western police reinforcements guarded the border and a U.S. Army helicopter hovered overhead as the Eastern police shifted the wall 10 feet west to the real East-West boundary line.

WITHIN 10 YARDS

The work, which began Monday night and continued Wednesday night, moved the new section of wall to within 10 yards of a rough wooden cross honoring the memory of Peter Fechter, a young East German shot down in 1962 while trying to scale the barrier and flee to the west.

Big Gain in '63

Canada Boom Surges Higher

OTTAWA (CP) — The national economy, ending 1963 on an upbeat note, registered a 6.6-per-cent gain in output during the year as the current long-lived business expansion began to rival the two postwar booms.

Gross national product—total value of goods and services produced—reached $43,007,000,000 the bureau of statistics reported Thursday. The increase was $2,688,000,000 over the revised 1962 total of $40,319,000,000.

PRICES RISING

With prices rising 1.8 per cent—about the same as in 1962—the volume of national production expanded 4.6 per cent compared with 61 per cent in 1962. The 6.6-per-cent GNP rise shown in the bureau's report—first full accounting for the year—surpassed the estimate of six per cent made only a month ago by Finance Minister Gordon in his budget speech.

As anticipated, the economy's performance in the fourth quarter was the strongest of the year, with gross national product rising 2.9 per cent from the third quarter to an annual rate of $44,332,000,000. Output in real volume terms rose 2.3 per cent.

SHARP GAIN

The gain in the October-December quarter was one of the sharpest since the current economic expansion began early in 1961.

The bureau report does not call this expansion a boom. But it said that in its first 2½ years, output in real volume terms rose 17.5 per cent compared with 21 per cent in the comparable period of the 1954-57 capital spending boom and 19 per cent in the 1949-52 Korean War expansion.

In Operation

NEGLIGENCE NOT EVIDENT

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury hearing an inquest into the post-operative death of 54-year-old Palmerston widow Ina Noer ruled Thursday that there was no significant evidence of negligence. They reached the decision while admitting there were serious and unfortunate errors made during the operation.

Mrs. Noer died in Palmerston General Hospital eight days after Dr. Kenneth Graham, 38, of Palmerston had performed a gall bladder operation on her.

A clamp was found inside Mrs. Noer, but the jury said this did not contribute to the death. However, it said it did show signs of lack of care on the part of Dr. Graham, in this phase of the operation.

The jury statement said death was caused by bile peritonitis which resulted from two significant surgical errors.

First, insufficient and inadequate dissection of the operative area, including failure to identify distinctly the cystic and hepatic ducts and the common bile duct, and particularly the junction of the cystic and common bile duct.

Second, inadequate closing of the cystic duct.

By TED GASKELL

Plan for a University of Victoria - controlled development of an apartment village on the Lansdowne campus acreage at a cost of between $8,000,000 and $8,000,000, was presented to the public at a meeting last night.

More than 200 residents of Oak Bay — and a few from Saanich — were present to hear details of the proposal which could provide the university with an endowment revenue of more than $750,000 a year in 15 or 20 years when the development is paid for.

The development board has assurance that loans for the construction of the 630-unit development would be insured by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The plan is the second the university development board has proposed for the 35 acres on Foul Bay Road. (See Picture Page 19.)

The first plan, for six-story apartment buildings and some single family dwellings, met

Accused Doing Treatise

Shoplifting Research By 'Bomb' Planter Fascinates Magistrate

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man who once planted a fake atomic bomb in the back yard of the White House dropped another "bomb" in police court Thursday.

Nicholas Schatroph told magistrate Bernard Isman that he deliberately shoplifted a $4 carving fork from a department store so that he could write the final chapter to a study he is making on shoplifting.

He said he wanted "first-hand experience" on the problem of shoplifting. Schatroph, charged after store security officers arrested him on the street outside the store, said he took the fork intentionally so he could study co-operation "between shoplifters and the store, co-operation between the store and police and shoplifters and police."

All the relationships were good, he said, except the one between shoplifters and the store.

Ananda Bhavanani, a psychologist, was called to the stand.

Pearson Greetings

Hope for World Khrushchev Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told Soviet Premier Khrushchev Thursday there is now more hope for solving the world's international problems.

His comment was contained in a message of greetings to the Soviet premier who celebrates his 70th birthday today.

"You are celebrating it, your birthday, at a time when there is a greater hope than formerly for finding solutions to the serious international problems that confront us," Mr. Pearson said.

"Such solutions will take time but they are essential to the peace for which there now is no tolerable alternative."

"We all recognize that the co-operation of the Soviet Union as one of the world's most powerful states and under your leadership is an indispensable element in the patient and persistent exploration of all measures which may contribute to a better understanding between nations."

Outside Staff Votes to Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — The men who drive the trucks, collect the garbage, repair the streets and perform most of the outside operations for Canada's third largest city have voted to go on strike.

Mao Offers Best Wishes

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev received congratulations on his 70th birthday today from Chinese Communist chief Mao Tse-tung, with whom he is carrying on a bitter struggle for control of world communism.

Khrushchev was also named Hero of the Soviet Union, the country's highest honor, and praised by all the top men in the Kremlin.

Mao, the Chinese leader whom Khrushchev smacked publicly only Wednesday, said he was convinced their differences were temporary.

Timmins Sits on Jewelry Store

TIMMINS, Ont. (UPI) — "We're sitting on top of a jewelry store here . . . and we love it."

That was mayor Leo del Villano's jubilant reaction Thursday to word that an American mining company has made a "major" copper-silver discovery near this northern Ontario mining centre.

(See also stories, Page 10). The discovery, announced in New York by Texas Gulf Sulphur Company president

Claude O. Stephens, set off a flurry of trading in mining stocks on both the New York and Toronto exchanges.

Reports from New York suggested fortunes had been made by land speculators. The Toronto market, with trading totalling more than 4,000,000 shares in the first hour, appeared headed for a volume record.

But nothing was more demonstrative than the almost "gold rush" reaction with which this community of 29,000 greeted the news. Scores of mining prospectors thronged the downtown business section. Even housewife chatter across the back fence reflected the town feeling that big days lay ahead.

"This is one of the biggest days in Northern Ontario's history," said del Villano, a part-time liquor salesman who has been mayor for eight years. "There's only one word to sum up how we feel—wonderful."

Del Villano said he and many others in the community believed there was a great deal more mineral wealth in the area "just waiting to be found."

"We feel we're sitting on top of a jewelry store, and we haven't even begun to get at the wealth," he said.

The mayor felt the Texas Gulf discovery came at a "most opportune" time, because some 1,500 jobs were scheduled to be lost this year with the closure of a veteran Hollinger mine owned by Consolidated Gold Mines Limited.

"The town might have been in some trouble when the mine shut down, but now things look all right," he said.

He said the Timmins council would do everything in its power to assist prospective mine operators get information about the area and its potential.

"We intend to treat these people right," he promised.
